

REPUBLICANISM IS STRONG IN OLD COLUMBIANA COUNTY

The Entire Party Ticket Goes Through With Substantial Majorities With the Single Exception of Samuel D. Noragon For Sheriff.

CHARLES P. LEONARD GETS INTO OFFICE BY A VERY NARROW MARGIN

Interest in the shrievalty fight was so great throughout the county that it obscured all other questions and issues.

The News Review as usual had an unrivaled bulletin service, and crowds flocked to its bulletin boards to learn the news. The inquirers did not ask about the vote for the head of the ticket, but about the vote for sheriff. Requests for information on that phase of the fight began early and continued late.

As soon as returns had been heard from a few of the strong Republican precincts of this city many well-posted party leaders were willing to concede Noragon's defeat. As the returns neared the stage where totals could be figured up, interest increased, it being apparent that the contest, whichever way it was decided, would be exceedingly close. Shortly after midnight several experts had figured out a plurality of 22 for Leonard. This morning rumors were in circulation that a recount had revealed a mistake and that a majority for Noragon was assured. There appeared to be no basis for the report, and although there are some who are hoping that the official count will show that Noragon was elected, the general opinion is that they will be disappointed.

The figures given below have been verified as far as possible by comparison with those received at Lisbon and are as nearly correct as unofficial figures could be expected to be. It will be seen that the vote in general was very tight. In 1900 McKinley had a majority over Bryan of 4,258 in Columbiana county. In 1899 Nash's plurality for governor was 3,828. In 1899 the total vote for Nash was 8,057 in the county. Yesterday Nash's vote was 7,572 and Kilbourne's 4,051, showing Nash's plurality to be 3,522, a remarkably good showing, considering the small vote.

No attempt has been made to figure up the vote for the Prohibitionists, the Union Reformers, the Socialist Labor ticket and the Socialist ticket. The official count will determine their totals.

The figures for representatives are incomplete, but they show the election of Buell and Crist, Republicans, by substantial majorities. Archer and Connell, Republicans, will represent the district in the senate.

Noragon alone is defeated on the Republican ticket. Clerk McNutt at Lisbon has figured up the returns received there and finds on their face that Leonard is 47 ahead. The figures given below make a different showing. The result is thought to hinge on the official figures in East Liverpool and Liverpool township.

HELD IN CHAINS

REVOLTING CRUELTY AGAINST AN EAST END LAD.

Parents Accused of Chaining Him Because He Is Incurable.

Complaint has been made of exceedingly cruelly alleged to be practiced by an East End family on an 11-year-old boy. It is averred that on Sunday the lad made his appearance at the home of a neighbor who resides on First avenue.

The boy was harnessed with a huge chain which bound him about the neck and enveloped his body in such a way as caused the chain to cut into the boy's neck in a painful way. A large padlock made the chain fast and hung on the victim's breast. The chain was cut off at a blacksmith.

The parents work in a pottery and claim that the lad is incurable. A month ago the father had his son arrested intending to have him sent to the reformatory. He changed his mind, concluding to have him sent to a brother who resides on a farm in West Virginia.

This step was not taken and the parents have felt justified in chaining him. They are declared to have kept him fastened to a bed post for a whole day. Neighbors think that the punishment has been too severe, but admit that the lad has proven wayward.

Constable Powell yesterday made an investigation of the facts and obtained the names of people willing to make affidavit to the charges. No arrests have been made, but prosecution may follow.

The people of the East End are very indignant and propose to bring the matter to the attention of the humane society.

THE VOTE WAS VERY LIGHT IN EAST LIVERPOOL CITY

Noragon Was Slashed Unmercifully and Leonard Led Him By Over 600 Votes.

WALSH RAN WELL, BUT HAD NO SHOW

Two Prohibitionists in One Precinct Gave Him the Compliment of Casting Ballots in His Favor.

WORKERS AT THE POLLS ACCOMPLISHED LITTLE

With the closing of the polls in East Liverpool last evening there ended one of the most peculiar elections ever held in the city. The vote was extremely light, but at the same time a great deal of interest was centered in several of the contests.

So far as the Republican ticket, both state and county, was concerned, but little scratching was done, and the usual majorities were netted.

As had been anticipated strong fights were put up by the Democrats for the offices of sheriff and representative. The result of the former contest was no surprise, for, as had been argued by the unionists of this community, the question was not a political one. The members of organized labor here and in other points in the county did not take kindly to the alleged attitude of Sheriff Noragon at Wellsville during the steel strike, and voiced their disapproval through the medium of their ballots.

C. P. Leonard, the Democratic nominee for sheriff, carried East Liverpool by about 600 and the county by the small margin of 22 to 47.

In Wellsville, Leonard's home town, and the point where it was expected the rebuke to Noragon would naturally be more pronounced than in any other locality, a very poor showing was made by the Amalgamated men. It is announced today that what work was accomplished toward the defeat of Noragon in Wellsville was caused largely by members of the N. B. of O. P.

For the office of representative J. C. Walsh's candidacy was a disappointment to the Democrats. Although he ran ahead of the Democratic state ticket, he lost almost every precinct in the county. It was thought by many of the Democratic leaders that those who supported Leonard would also cast their ballots for Walsh, but in this they were wrong. In East Liverpool, however, he did well, running less than 100 behind Buell.

The day passed off very quietly, there being few if any challenges and no disorder. The workers at the polls were much in evidence, but from all indications their efforts counted for nothing, as the voters in almost every instance had their minds made up long before election day.

In the first precinct of the First ward two most peculiarly marked ballots were taken from the box during the progress of the count. Each elector had placed an X mark at the head of the Prohibition ticket, signifying their intention to support that party. A closer inspection showed that they had gone down the length of the ballot to the office of representative and then moved over to the Democratic column and voted for Walsh. The incident created much amusement among the election officers at that precinct.

SURPRISE SPRUNG ON GARFIELD CAMP

Ladies of the Relief Corps Presented Sons of Veterans a Fine Banner.

A PRESENTATION SPEECH

Was Made And an Appropriate Response—The Affair One of the Pleasantest in the History of the Organization.

At the regular meeting of General Garfield camp, Sons of Veterans, last evening, a pleasant and most agreeable surprise was sprung upon the members.

A few of the officers were let into the secret some time ago and had made all arrangements for the complete success of the undertaking.

The camp had proceeded with its routine business and were almost ready for adjournment when the meeting was interrupted by about 40 members of General Lyon Relief Corps. Miss Minta McLain was escorted into the room by Post Captain F. W. Timmons and took her place at the piano. The lady played a popular march while the others filed in on either side of the room.

In an address which was both eloquent and pleasing, Past President Mrs. M. E. Calhoun, of the Relief Corps, presented the Sons of Veterans with a beautiful silk flag. Mrs. Calhoun was followed by Mrs. T. O. Timmons, who, in a happy and characteristic manner assured the members of the camp of their cordial and loyal support at all times.

Past Captain J. J. Rose accepted the handsome gift on behalf of No. 3 and the response was very interesting.

It was the desire of the recipients of the flag to convert the meeting into a social session, but Mrs. Gross-

hans, who had charge of the corps, in a few well chosen remarks, retired with her company.

The flag is the handsomest and most valuable national emblem owned by any organization in the city. It is of regulation size, composed wholly of silk, and contains on one side a beautiful hand-painted seal of the order and on the other a seal of the state of Ohio.

SMOKING CHIMNEY

CAUSED AN ALARM OF FIRE TO BE TURNED IN.

Department Responded, But Its Services Not Needed—Considerable Excitement.

Quite a commotion was caused last night at about 10 o'clock as the result of a fire alarm which was sent into the central station. The uptown streets were filled with people who were watching the election bulletins being posted in various places, and when the fire department was seen starting out Sixth street hundreds of excited persons followed.

The alarm proved to be a false one, however, as it was found that a smoking chimney had caused all the trouble. Mike Cloran, who lives above his saloon on Sixth street, detected smoke in his room and on investigating, found that the store room occupied by G. P. Schmidt was densely filled.

Others who were attracted to the scene were certain that the building was on fire and an alarm was sent in immediately. The firemen responded in short order. The store door was forced open, but after investigating it was found that the smoke was issuing from the chimney. Clerks in the grocery set up a stove yesterday and neglected to clean out the soot from the flue. It had become ignited, the smoke from which escaped through the store instead of the proper avenue.

Some excitement was caused at the opera house by a boy who shouted an alarm of fire, but there was no stampede, as the management promptly explained the true situation and alleviated all uneasiness.

BETHANY COLLEGE SIMPLY SMOTHERED

THE SCORE WAS 28 TO 0

The Collegians Were Outplayed And Outclassed at Every Point of the Game—Brilliant Runs Were Again a Feature.

The score of 28 to 0 tells the result of an awful drubbing administered to the Bethany college team by the Y. M. C. A.'s at West End park yesterday afternoon.

It was by far the most brilliant game ever witnessed in this city. Every member of the home team played a star game and the visitors were completely at their mercy.

Only once during the entire contest were the collegians able to hold the home team for downs.

The interference of the home aggregation was fine, it formed quickly and shot past and through the visitors' line before they could realize what had happened.

This was the first time Bethany had ever been defeated here, the last game resulting in a tie, neither team scored.

The home team have now scored 70 points without their goal line being crossed, and if they can prevent the heavy Mt. Union college team from scoring next Saturday, their goal line will probably not be crossed this year, as the Mt. Unions are thought to be the strongest left on the schedule.

Captain Gordon, of Bethany, won the toss, and chose to defend the east goal. Baker kicked to Bethany on the 20-yard line. The ball was returned two yards by Gordon. Bethany could not gain and the ball went to

The camp had proceeded with its routine business and were almost ready for adjournment when the meeting was interrupted by about 40 members of General Lyon Relief Corps. Miss Minta McLain was escorted into the room by Post Captain F. W. Timmons and took her place at the piano. The lady played a popular march while the others filed in on either side of the room.

In an address which was both eloquent and pleasing, Past President Mrs. M. E. Calhoun, of the Relief Corps, presented the Sons of Veterans with a beautiful silk flag. Mrs. Calhoun was followed by Mrs. T. O. Timmons, who, in a happy and characteristic manner assured the members of the camp of their cordial and loyal support at all times.

Past Captain J. J. Rose accepted the handsome gift on behalf of No. 3 and the response was very interesting.

It was the desire of the recipients of the flag to convert the meeting into a social session, but Mrs. Gross-

hans, who had charge of the corps, in a few well chosen remarks, retired with her company.

The flag is the handsomest and most valuable national emblem owned by any organization in the city. It is of regulation size, composed wholly of silk, and contains on one side a beautiful hand-painted seal of the order and on the other a seal of the state of Ohio.

CAUSED AN ALARM OF FIRE TO BE TURNED IN.

Department Responded, But Its Services Not Needed—Considerable Excitement.

Quite a commotion was caused last night at about 10 o'clock as the result of a fire alarm which was sent into the central station. The uptown streets were filled with people who were watching the election bulletins being posted in various places, and when the fire department was seen starting out Sixth street hundreds of excited persons followed.

The alarm proved to be a false one, however, as it was found that a smoking chimney had caused all the trouble. Mike Cloran, who lives above his saloon on Sixth street, detected smoke in his room and on investigating, found that the store room occupied by G. P. Schmidt was densely filled.

Others who were attracted to the scene were certain that the building was on fire and an alarm was sent in immediately. The firemen responded in short order. The store door was forced open, but after investigating it was found that the smoke was issuing from the chimney. Clerks in the grocery set up a stove yesterday and neglected to clean out the soot from the flue. It had become ignited, the smoke from which escaped through the store instead of the proper avenue.

Some excitement was caused at the opera house by a boy who shouted an alarm of fire, but there was no stampede, as the management promptly explained the true situation and alleviated all uneasiness.

BETHANY COLLEGE SIMPLY SMOTHERED

The Collegians Were Outplayed And Outclassed at Every Point of the Game—Brilliant Runs Were Again a Feature.

The score of 28 to 0 tells the result of an awful drubbing administered to the Bethany college team by the Y. M. C. A.'s at West End park yesterday afternoon.

It was by far the most brilliant game ever witnessed in this city. Every member of the home team played a star game and the visitors were completely at their mercy.

Only once during the entire contest were the collegians able to hold the home team for downs.

The interference of the home aggregation was fine, it formed quickly and shot past and through the visitors' line before they could realize what had happened.

This was the first time Bethany had ever been defeated here, the last game resulting in a tie, neither team scored.

The home team have now scored 70 points without their goal line being crossed, and if they can prevent the heavy Mt. Union college team from scoring next Saturday, their goal line will probably not be crossed this year, as the Mt. Union are thought to be the strongest left on the schedule.

Captain Gordon, of Bethany, won the toss, and chose to defend the east goal. Baker kicked to Bethany on the 20-yard line. The ball was returned two yards by Gordon. Bethany could not gain and the ball went to

Y. M. C. A.

On a succession of plays by Stoffel, Moore and Stephens the ball was carried over the line by Moore for a touchdown just four minutes after play began. Stoffel missed a difficult goal. Score, Y. M. C. A., 5; Bethany, 0. Gordon kicked off to Wood, who

HELD IN CHAINS

REVOLTING CRUELTY AGAINST AN EAST END LAD.

Parents Accused of Chaining Him Because He Is Incurable.

Complaint has been made of exceeding cruelty alleged to be practiced by an East End family on an 11-year-old boy. It is averred that on Sunday the lad made his appearance at the home of a neighbor who resides on First avenue.

The boy was harnessed with a huge chain which bound him about the neck and enveloped his body in such a way as caused the chain to cut into the boy's neck in a painful way. A large padlock made the chain fast and hung on the victim's breast. The chain was cut off at a blacksmith.

The parents work in a pottery and claim that the lad is incurable. A month ago the father had his son arrested intending to have him sent to the reformatory. He changed his mind, concluding to have him sent to a brother who resides on a farm in West Virginia.

This step was not taken and the parents have felt justified in chaining him. They are declared to have kept him fastened to a bed post for a whole day. Neighbors think that the punishment has been too severe, but admit that the lad has proven wayward.

Constable Powell yesterday made an investigation of the facts and obtained the names of people willing to make affidavit to the charges. No arrests have been made, but prosecution may follow.

The people of the East End are very indignant and propose to bring the matter to the attention of the humane society.

BEAVER VALLEY CITY

Project Favored of Uniting Boroughs into a Town of 35,000.

Beaver Falls, November 6.—A meeting of the citizens of the towns of the Beaver valley was held in New Brighton to consider the project of uniting all the different municipalities into one city.

It is proposed to take in Beaver Falls, New Brighton, Rochester, Monaca, Freedom, Rochester township, Bridgewater, College Hill, Pulaski township, Borough township, Fallston, White township, Patterson township, Heights borough and East Vale. These places have a population of 34,940. The question of consolidation will be put to a vote of the citizens. The project seems to meet with general approval.

NILES STEEL PLANT SOLD

Youngstown Iron, Sheet And Tube Company Made an Important Purchase.

Youngstown, November 6.—The Youngstown Iron, Sheet and Tube company yesterday closed a deal for the purchase of the whole Niles industry and will pick it up bodily, bring it to Youngstown and add it to the already large plant it is now building.

The plant bought is the new process galvanizing works. The deal includes the patent right to carry on the manufacture of galvanized sheets by the exclusive process which the Niles company controlled. The work of dismantling will begin immediately.

TIED AND ABANDONED

An Akron High School Junior Subjected to Very Harsh Treatment.

Akron, November 6.—Will S. Stottler and H. E. Elliott, high school juniors, were set upon by sophomores as they were taking two girls home from a social. After a lively fight Elliott escaped. Stottler was taken to Hall's fair grounds, and made to entertain his captors until midnight, when he was tied to a tree and abandoned. He escaped at daylight, nearly frozen.

This escapade has caused a tremendous sensation in the high school, and there will be some lively times resulting from it.

ONE OF THE HEIRS

To an Estate of $39,000,000 Is a Resident of Warren.

Warren, November 6.—Mrs. Skinner, wife of L. E. Skinner, a Warren contractor, has learned that the claim of the Reynolds heirs to a $39,000,000 estate in Philadelphia has been allowed. Mrs. Skinner is one of the heirs.

Struck by Trolley Car.

Steubenville, Nov. 6.—A southbound car on the Brilliant extension of the Steubenville, Mingo & Ohio Valley Traction company's line struck a two seated surry driven by Edwin Winning, of Brilliant, at the crossing below George's run, near this city. He was badly bruised, but it is not thought his injuries are of a serious nature.

Hauk's Bond Filed.

Youngstown, Nov. 6.—C. D. Hauk, who is to erect a fuel gas plant in this city for which he was recently granted a franchise, has filed his bond with the board of city commissioners. The bond was given in the sum of $10,000 with the American Surety company, of New York, as surety. Mr. Hauk has not yet determined upon a site for his plant.

LUCKY STEUBENVILLE

Pennsylvania Company Intimates That a New Depot Will Be Built There.

Steubenville, Nov. 6.—It is given out by a Pennsylvania railroad official that a large and handsome depot will be built to replace the present one. Plans for a new building were prepared several years ago, but expenditures elsewhere forced the improvements here aside.

All Cleveland & Pittsburgh passenger trains will be run into this depot through a system of interlocking switches at Mingo Junction, to the south, and at Riverside Junction, to the north. This will leave the river tracks of the Cleveland & Pittsburgh railroad for the exclusive use of freight trains. Ground is to be purchased on both sides of the Panhandle tracks, so that there will be four tracks between the interlocking cross-overs, instead of two.

MUST APOLOGIZE

Pupils of Columbiana High School Suspended for Disrespect to Teacher.

Columbiana, November 6.—Considerable excitement was created here a few days ago by the suspension of five or six pupils of the high school for disrespect to one of the teachers, whom they disliked.

The school board took up the matter at its meeting Monday evening. The discussion was spirited and finally resulted in the decision that the students might return if they would make suitable apologies, which several have already done.

CLARKSON

Clarkson, Nov. 6.—King winter has entered upon her reign. The drought was beginning to be serious.

Thirty years ago a boy in his teens, Marcus Wollam, left his home here and went to Galien, this state, where he identified himself with the business interests of the town, never once returning to his home until last week. Then he met with a hearty reception from an aged mother, brother, sisters and old friends and school mates.

Harry Warrick is home from Canfield where he has been attending school.

Orville Warrick, of Beaver, visited friends here recently.

Prof. C. M. L. Alldorffer, of Youngstown, visited his mother south of this city last week.

Edson Alldorffer has been visiting with his uncle, Martin Dickey, and James Derringer, East End, East Liverpool.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Booth and Miss Maude Crawford, of East Liverpool, visited Mrs. Josephine Sutton here.

Mrs. Hunter and her little daughter, of Beaver Falls, are visiting Mrs. Hunter's friends, Mr. and Mrs. James Warrick, west of town.

Theatrical Company Attached.

Steubenville, Nov. 6.—Constable Cunningham attached Leavitt & Lederer's show here yesterday for Edwin E. Mayhew, one of the actors, for salary due amounting to $84. Joseph Coleman, another actor, had an attachment issued for $82 for salary. The amounts were paid.

Valuable Sand Stone.

Warren, November 6.—Another bed of sand stone suitable for glass making has been found near Niles. Already much sand stone is being shipped from below Niles to Pittsburgh. Plans are under way for a glass factory to be erected at Mineral Ridge.

Very Tired.

It has remained for a little girl to nearly, if not quite, equal a famous witicism of Leigh Hunt. Of course she spoke in childish innocence, where the English essayist and wit used his ripened intellect.

Hunt, in describing an exceedingly warm day, it will be remembered, spoke of it as one which tempted him to strip off his flesh and sit in his bones.

The little girl had been romping and running all day. Toward nightfall her father met her. "Are you not very tired, little one?" he asked.

"Oh, not so very tired, papa," she replied. Then in a burst of confidence she whispered, "Only I do feel as though I'd like to take my legs off and carry them awhile."

Jumped on a Ten-Penny Nail.

The little daughter of Mr. J. N. Powell jumped on an inverted rake made of ten penny nails, and thrust one nail entirely through her foot and a second one half way through. Chamberlain's Pain Balm was promptly applied and five minutes later the pain had disappeared and no more suffering was experienced. In three days the child was wearing her shoe as usual and with absolutely no discomfort. Mr. Powell is a well known merchant of Forkland, Va. Pain Balm is an anti-septic and heals such injuries without maturation and in one-third the time required by the usual treatment. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, druggist.

Silence You Can See.

There is no such thing as silence in this world. It is an impossibility. That is partly the reason why science has enabled us to see it.

The explanation of the paradox is this: Silence, as we understand it, simply means that there are sounds too delicate or too loud for the ear to register. In other words, when we can't hear anything we call that condition "silence." But wherever you are there are sounds around you. Even in the deepest mine the air vibrates and makes a sound. An instrument has been invented that will catch these sounds and permit of the vibrations being represented pictorially on a screen, and in that way you may see silence and properly understand what it means.

By comparing the pictures of noises with those of that condition of things known as silence we gain an idea of the difference between a noisy night, for instance, and one when "absolute silence reigns," as the novelist puts it. It is rather surprising to find so much disturbance at the time when everything appears to be perfectly quiet.—Pearson's Weekly.

Diplomatic.

The late Lord Savile used to say, according to The Candid Friend, "that high diplomats had always to be on their guard against intriguing women, mainly Russian agents, who would use any wile to extract information. During the Russo-Turkish war, when Europe was always on the verge of a crisis and Russian statesmen were most anxious to know what England would do under given circumstances, a lady came up to him suddenly at a ball and said:

"I hear that the Russians have made a forced march and entered Constantinople," hoping no doubt that he would be surprised into some indiscreet expression.

He merely replied: "Indeed! And I suppose the sultan has conferred on them the order of the Turkish Bath!"

The lady continued gravely: "And they say in Paris that if England does not interfere the eastern question is settled in favor of Russia." "And that," replied his excellency, "is, I suppose, the new judgment of Paris."

She Needed Them.

"I wish, John," she said regretfully, "I had had sense enough not to destroy all the letters you wrote me during the year and a half of your courtship."

He smiled in a gratified way. "I knew you would regret that some time," he said.

"Indeed I do," she replied. "I need a little change the worst sort of way, and the man who buys rags and old paper was here today. How wasteful we are in our youth!"

He looked at her reproachfully, and almost involuntarily his hand sought his pocketbook. It is seldom indeed that a resourceful woman has to make a direct request for money.—Chicago Post.

NASH IS RE-ELECTED.

Ohio Went Republican by Enlarged Majority on State Ticket.

FORAKER SURE OF HIS SEAT.

Increased Republican Majority in the Legislature—One of Reasons Attributed For Result, Desire to Endorse Late President's Policies.

Columbus, O., Nov. 6.—The Republicans carried Ohio by such an increased plurality on their state ticket and with such an enlarged majority in the legislature as to call all sorts of comment on "what did it." The result continues the Republicans in power in the state, making an epoch 12 years in succession for that party in Ohio, and it insures the re-election of Senator Foraker.

The extent of the Republican success is attributed to the Silver Democrats not voting; to the attitude of John R. McLean, Democratic candidate for governor two years ago, and Ohio member of the Democratic national committee; to the superior organization of the Republicans, and other causes.

For Late President's Policies.

The Republicans attribute the result largely to the popular desire not to disturb the prevailing prosperity in accordance with Senator Hanna's appeal to "let well enough alone;" to the desire to support President Roosevelt in carrying out the policies of the late President McKinley and to the endorsement of Governor Nash and Senator Foraker. Chairman Dick sent a message to Governor Nash at the state house and telegrams to Senator Foraker at Cincinnati, and Senator Hanna at Cleveland, congratulating them on these lines.

Talk of Dick For Governor.

The Republicans are so elated over their triumph that they are already talking of Congressman Dick, who has been chairman of their state committee for 11 years, for governor two years hence, when Senator Hanna stands for re-election, and it is currently reported that John R. McLean then will be the Democratic candidate for senator. It has been generally believed that Hon. Charles W. Baker, of Cincinnati, who has been an avowed candidate against Foraker, will receive the complimentary vote of the Democrats.

Republicans From Hamilton.

In Hamilton county, which includes Cincinnati, there was a mixed delegation in the last legislature, when John R. McLean (Dem.) carried that county for governor. It had only two Republicans. This year's delegation consists of 13 Republicans. Lucas county had two Republican members in the last legislature, but under the new census it has four members, all Republicans. The Democrats gain four members in Franklin and one in Adams and Pike counties. The Republicans gain one member each in Summit, Muskingum, Ross and Williams counties.

In the last legislature Montgomery had one Republican and one Democratic member. This year that county elected three Republican members.

Local Option Defeated.

So far as returns are in since midnight "local option" candidates of both parties for the legislature have been defeated. The liquor men are especially jubilant over the defeat of T. H. Clark, one of the Republican candidates in Franklin county, who was the author of the "local option" bill that was defeated in the last legislature.

At midnight Chairman Dick was called out for a speech, in which he referred to the scenes in the same auditorium when the late President McKinley was first elected governor. He eulogized President Roosevelt, Governor Nash, Senator Foraker and others who were selected to perpetuate the principles of the late President, McKinley and other leaders.

At Democratic state headquarters no statements had been given out last night except that they conceded the state to the Republicans. Chairman Dick, of the Republican state headquarters, said good night to the crowd after issuing the following: "Returns at midnight indicate the election of Governor Nash by 60,000 and upwards and the election of 22 to 25 of the 33 members of the senate and 70 to 80 of the 110 members of the house."

These figures on the standing of the legislature happen to be the same as in Chairman Dick's ante-election statement last Saturday.

The Republican plurality exceeds the average of 53,000 for the last 10 years, or since the first election of McKinley as governor, which has been termed the greatest Republican era in Ohio.

The returns from Columbus complete are: Nash (Rep.), 13,762; Kilbourne (Dem.), 15,919; Kilbourne's plurality 1,257. Nash carried the city two years ago by 2,755. Kilbourne's plurality in Franklin county is about 2,500. The Democrats have certainly elected two senators.

Complete returns from Franklin county shows the Democrats have elected all four candidates for representative.

Toledo, O., Nov. 6.—In the face of the fact that the Democrats made a fight against Governor Nash on the ground that he killed the Toledo centennial by using his influence to defeat any measure in the legislature which appropriated more than $500,000 for the centennial, the governor carried this county by nearly 1,000 majority. The entire county ticket, including one senator, four representatives and three common pleas judges have majorities ranging between 2,000 and 4,000.

The following is the result in Northwestern Ohio counties:

Wood county, 2,100 for Nash and entire Republican ticket; Allen county, 1,000 for Kilbourne and entire Democratic county ticket; Putnam county, 1,500 for Kilbourne and entire Democratic county ticket; Mercer, 1,500 for Kilbourne and entire Democratic county ticket; Fulton, 1,000 for Nash and entire Republican county ticket; Williams, 500 for Nash and entire Republican county ticket; Calvin P. Godfrey, Republican, has defeated J. R. Kagy, Democrat, for senator in the Thirty-third district, by 300, making a gain of about 2,000 votes.

KENTUCKY.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 6.—Charles F. Grainer, Democrat, is elected mayor of Louisville by over 8,000. Every member of the school board of Louisville elected yesterday, is a Democrat. Returns and reports from all over the state indicate corresponding Democratic success. The "Courier Journal" claims Democrats will have increased majorities in both houses of next general assembly, which will elect a successor to United States Senator Deboe.

Middlesboro, Ky., Nov. 6.—Colonel David G. Colson, Republican, former congressman from the Eleventh congressional district, was elected to the general assembly of Kentucky by a large majority.

COLORADO.

Denver, Nov. 6.—The returns received up to midnight indicate that in this (Arapahoe) county the entire Democratic ticket is elected by from 2,000 to 5,000 plurality. Some of the Democratic candidates were scratched heavily, but all are elected. Returns from the state are very meager. Dispatches from Pueblo indicate that Pueblo has gone Republican, and news from Colorado Springs is to the same effect regarding El Paso county. Leadville dispatches claim a Republican majority of 500 in Lake county. Teller county (the Cripple Creek mining district) is Democratic, but figures were unobtainable at the above hour.

NEW JERSEY.

Newark, N. J., Nov. 6.—According to returns up to 12:30 a. m. the Republicans carried this state, electing Murphy governor by at least 8,000 over Seymour, Democrat. Murphy's majority may go several thousand higher and his friends are claiming from 10,000 to 13,500. The Republicans elect strong majorities in both houses of the legislature. The greatest surprise of the day was in Warren county, which elected a Republican to the assembly, something which never occurred before. Essex will probably give Murphy 7,000 to 8,000.

CONNECTICUT.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 6.—Connecticut today-to-day delegates to the first constitutional convention to be held in the state since 1818. Of the 168 towns in the state, 165 have been heard from, showing that Republican delegates were elected in 165; Democrats in 44 and Citizen or non-partisan candidates in 16. Two cities of the state, Ansonia and Bridgeport, held city elections. In Ansonia, Stephen Charters, candidate of the Democratic and Labor party, was chosen mayor by a majority unusual there. In Bridgeport the Democrats also scored a notable victory.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Boston, Nov. 6.—Josiah Quincy, former mayor of Boston, carried the city by a plurality of 7,699 in his contest with W. Murray Crane for the governorship. This is a gain of about 4,600 over the plurality accorded in this city last year to Robert Treat Paine, Jr., in his contest with Governor Crane. The total vote cast shows a natural falling off this year. Last November Governor Crane received 35,597, and yesterday his votes numbered 31,456. Paine's vote in 1900 was 38,696; Quincy's in 1901 is 39,155.

KANSAS.

Topeka, Kan., Nov. 6.—Local elections were held in every county in Kansas, county commissioners and school trustees being the only officers elected. Republicans were generally successful. While the election was uninteresting so far as issues were concerned, it was important chiefly in noting the way in which the political wind is blowing. The Republicans claim that in the results of yesterday they can forecast a safe majority for the Republicans in the next legislature.

IOWA.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 6.—The result in Iowa is remarkable. With a marked falling off in the vote throughout the state, the loss in some precincts being 40 and 50 per cent in the total vote, and the average loss for the state being one-fifth the total of two years ago, A. B. Cummins, the Republican candidate, has been elected by a plurality of something like 90,000, the largest ever given a governor in this state. The entire Republican state ticket is elected by similar pluralities, and extraordinary gains have been made.

SETH LOW WON.

Defeated Shepard, Tammany Candidate, for Mayor of New York.

JEROME WAS ALSO A WINNER.

Mayor Van Wick Defeated For Justice of the Supreme Court—Shepard Congratulates Low—Latter Declares Election a Rebuke to Tammany.

New York, Nov. 6.—Seth Low, former president of Columbia University and four years ago the Citizens Union candidate for the first Mayor of Greater New York, was elected the second Mayor of Greater New York by a plurality ranging anywhere from 30,000 to 40,000, defeating Edward M. Shepard, of Brooklyn, the Democratic nominee. The campaign was an exciting one and the vote, though somewhat less than the Presidential election a year ago, was the largest ever polled in a municipal contest in this city.

Justice Jerome Elected.

In addition to the canvass for Mayor, public interest largely centered in the nomination by the fusionists of William Travers Jerome for District Attorney and Mayor Robert A. Van Wyck, by the Democrats for Justice of the Supreme Court, were voted for only in the territory contained in New York county. Returns received up to 11 p. m. last night indicated that Jerome had been elected by a comfortable plurality, and that Mayor Van Wyck had been defeated, the latter running behind his ticket from 15,000 to 20,000.

Returns also indicated the complete triumph of the Greater New York fusion ticket, Charles Vincent Fornes, the nominee of the Citizens Union, and the Republicans for President of the board of Aldermen, defeating George M. Van Hoesen, the Democratic nominee. E. M. Grout, for the past four years Democratic President of the borough of Brooklyn, now the fusionist nominee for Comptroller, has also defeated W. W. Ladd, Jr., Democrat.

Cromwell Beat Muller.

Returns from the local, borough and county tickets were incomplete last night. Complete returns received from Staten Island, however, showed that Congressman Nicholas Muller has been defeated in his canvass for president of the borough of Richmond by George Cromwell, fusionist. In the borough of Queens, the election of Joseph Cassidy, Democrat, as president of the borough over Henry Doherty, Republican, and Robert B. Lawrence, Citizens Union, is conceded. In the boroughs of Brooklyn, Manhattan and the Bronx, additional and possibly official returns will be required to determine the results for borough president and other local officers.

Legislature About the Same.

Reports received from the various sections of New York state show that the Republicans will retain control of the lower house of the state legislature, the number of Republican and Democratic assemblymen, not differing materially from the figures of preceding years. In the various municipal contests reported from up the state the most interesting elections noted were those of Albany, Troy, Rochester, Syracuse and Buffalo. The city of Albany was carried by the Republicans, ex-Senator David B. Hill taking no active part in the local canvass. The election in Troy was a lively one, a number of arrests for illegal voting being made. Former U. S. Senator Murphy headed the fight for the candidate of the Democrats, while former Governor Black managed the campaign for the progressive Democratic-Republican ticket. Seymour Van Zantwood, the candidate for mayor, supported by ex-Gov. Black, was easily elected. In Buffalo, the entire Republican city and county tickets were elected, Erastus J. Knight, the state comptroller, being chosen mayor. The result in Rochester was close, but Mayor Warner's friends claim his election over the Republican candidate. In Syracuse Mayor McGuire, for a number of years past the Democratic mayor of the city,

SETH LOW.

was defeated by the Republican nominee.

Low Much Gratified.

Seth Low, at 9 o'clock last night, said at his home, where he was receiving election returns:

"I suppose it is safe to assume the result of the election is now assured. It bears out what my friends have anticipated and I am very much gratified by the result. This is a pleasant outcome of a hard struggle. I appreciate heartily the splendid support the newspapers have given this movement. I think they have been a splendid and important factor in bringing about the result."

Mr. Low said that to-day he and his wife were going to Great Barrington, Mass., where they would remain for the remainder of the week, if not for a longer time.

About 11 o'clock last night Mr. Low

gave out a formal statement in which he said:

Rebuke to Tammany, Said Low. "The outcome of this election is a splendid vindication of universal suffrage. From all parts of the city have come the votes that have rebuked the Tammany orgie of the last four years. All the patronage of the city and limitless money have not availed against the aroused indignation of the people and it is safe to say that absentee government and government for private gain will not be seen again in New York City for many a day. This is no man's triumph, but it is the people's victory. The agencies that have brought it about are many. Those who labored so long and so patiently to bring about the successful fusion of many elements and those who have supported the fusion so loyally are all entitled to the greatest credit. For myself I ask for the generous and constant support of the community in the great task to which it has summoned me."

Mr. Low was in receipt of hundreds of telegrams from prominent men, not only in the city, but also from different parts of the state and country, among them being congratulations from President Roosevelt and Senator Foraker, of Ohio.

Croker Conceded Low's Election.

Richard Croker, at 8:45 o'clock last night conceded the election of Seth Low, fusion candidate for mayor, but Mr. Croker was not willing at that time to give up the county ticket.

He said he was much disappointed at the Brooklyn vote, as he had expected Mr. Shepard to make a good showing there, it being his home borough.

As to the causes for the defeat of the Democratic ticket, Mr. Croker said he was inclined to ascribe it to the large silent vote and the fact that the people sometimes feel that they want a change.

Edward M. Shepard last night sent a telegram of congratulation to Mr. Low. His telegram read:

"With all sincerity I wish you the utmost success in the great office to which the people of Greater New York have called you."

A Statement by Shepard.

Mr. Shepard then dictated this statement for publication:

"I sincerely wish Mr. Low a thoroughly successful administration. The people have indicated their decided preference; not only is it the duty of every good citizen to cheerfully acquiesce in the result, but he should do his utmost to make the result beneficial to the city. All of us—Republicans and Democrats alike—should loyally hold up the hands of those whom the people have chosen in all good work on their part."

"Of course I regret the result, but trust that the munificent purposes which those who nominated me and I have had in mind may be realized even if in a manner different from that which we should have preferred."

"I thoroughly appreciate the efficient work done against adverse conditions by the Democratic organizations in five boroughs."

Croker Said People Wanted Change.

At 10 o'clock last night Richard Croker, again commenting on Mr. Shepard's defeat, said he could not ascribe it to any one issue. "The people wanted a change," said he, "and the organization bows to the will of the people. Tammany Hall has been in power for practically 17 years and if any one party were to remain in control for too long a period the tendency would be toward a perpetuation of power until the result would resemble a monarchy. Tammany has always prided by defeat and I hope will do so this time."

New York Supreme Judges.

The following is a list of the candidates elected judges of the supreme court in this state:

First district—Morgan J. O'Brien, re-elected (Fusion and Democrat). James A. Blauhaard (Fusion). John Proctor Clarke, re-elected (Fusion). Third district—A. V. Cochrane (Rep.). Fourth district—Edgar R. Spencer (Rep.). Sixth district—Garret A. Forbes, re-elected (Rep.). Charles E. Parker, re-elected (Rep.). Seventh district—William R. Adams, re-elected (Rep.).

MARYLAND.

Baltimore, Nov. 6.—At 1 o'clock this morning less than half the returns from the city are in. One hundred voting precincts give Hering (Dem.) for comptroller 11,000; Platt (Rep.) 12,186. The first legislative district of Baltimore city, with 69 precincts missing, gives the leading Republican candidate 3,822 votes, while the leading Democratic candidate has 3,804. The others range from 3,604 to 3,799, and the delegation is about evenly divided between the two parties, as indicated by the returns now in. The second district is probably Democratic, while the third is almost surely Republican. The figures from the counties come in very slowly. Montgomery is probably Democratic and it is claimed that the Democrats have elected their senatorial candidate in Alleghany.

RHODE ISLAND.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 6.—Without any conclusive returns from the cities and towns through the state, it was generally conceded after the close of the polls at 7 o'clock, that Governor Gregory and the Republican state ticket are elected by a plurality of about 5,000. This is a loss of 3,000 from last year. The vote polled through the state was light.

Forty districts in Rhode Island outside of Providence give Gregory (Rep.) 5,288; Garvin (Dem.), 3,102, a net Republican loss over last year of over 1,000.

Some of the Democratic candidates were scratched heavily, but all are elected. Returns from the state are very meager. Dispatches from Pueblo indicate that Pueblo has gone Republican, and news from Colorado Springs is to the same effect regarding El Paso county. Leadville dispatches claim a Republican majority of 500 in Lake county. Teller county (the Cripple Creek mining district) is Democratic, but figures were unobtainable at the above hour.

NEW JERSEY.

Newark, N. J., Nov. 6.—According to returns up to 12:30 a. m. the Republicans carried this state, electing Murphy governor by at least 8,000 over Seymour, Democrat. Murphy's majority may go several thousand higher and his friends are claiming from 10,000 to 13,500. The Republicans elect strong majorities in both houses of the legislature. The greatest surprise of the day was in Warren county, which elected a Republican to the assembly, something which never occurred before. Essex will probably give Murphy 7,000 to 8,000.

CONNECTICUT.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 6.—Connecticut chose today delegates to the first constitutional convention to be held in the state since 1818. Of the 168 towns in the state, 165 have been heard from, showing that Republican delegates were elected in 105; Democrats in 44 and Citizen or non-partisan candidates in 16. Two cities of the state, Ansonia and Bridgeport, held city elections. In Ansonia, Stephen Charters, candidate of the Democratic and Labor party, was chosen mayor by a majority unusual there. In Bridgeport the Democrats also scored a notable victory.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Boston, Nov. 6.—Josiah Quincy, former mayor of Boston, carried the city by a plurality of 7,699 in his contest with W. Murray Crane for the governorship. This is a gain of about 4,600 over the plurality accorded in this city last year to Robert Treat Paine, Jr., in his contest with Governor Crane. The total vote cast shows a natural falling off this year. Last November Governor Crane received 35,597, and yesterday his votes numbered 31,456. Paine's vote in 1900 was 33,696; Quincy's in 1901 is 39,155.

KANSAS.

Topeka, Kan., Nov. 6.—Local elections were held in every county in Kansas, county commissioners and school trustees being the only officers elected. Republicans were generally successful. While the election was uninteresting so far as issues were concerned, it was important chiefly in noting the way in which the political wind is blowing. The Republicans claim that in the results of yesterday they can forecast a safe majority for the Republicans in the next legislature.

IOWA.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 6.—The result in Iowa is remarkable. With a marked falling off in the vote throughout the state, the loss in some precincts being 40 and 50 per cent in the total vote, and the average loss for the state being one-fifth the total of two years ago, A. B. Cummins, the Republican candidate, has been elected by a plurality of something like 90,000, the largest ever given a governor in this state. The entire Republican state ticket is elected by similar pluralities, and extraordinary gains have been made.

SETH LOW WON.

Defeated Shepard, Tammany Candidate, for Mayor of New York.

JEROME WAS ALSO A WINNER.

Mayor Van Wick Defeated For Justice of the Supreme Court—Shepard Congratulates Low—Latter Declares Election a Rebuke to Tammany.

New York, Nov. 6.—Seth Low, former president of Columbia University and four years ago the Citizens Union candidate for the first Mayor of Greater New York, was elected the second Mayor of Greater New York by a plurality ranging anywhere from 30,000 to 40,000, defeating Edward M. Shepard, of Brooklyn, the Democratic nominee. The campaign was an exciting one and the vote, though somewhat less than the Presidential election a year ago, was the largest ever polled in a municipal contest in this country.

Justice Jerome Elected.

In addition to the canvass for Mayor, public interest largely centered in the nomination by the fusionists of William Travers Jerome for District Attorney and Mayor Robert A. Van Wyck, by the Democrats for Justice of the Supreme Court, were voted for only in the territory contained in New York county. Returns received up to 11 p. m. last night indicated that Jerome had been elected by a comfortable plurality, and that Mayor Van Wyck had been defeated, the latter running behind his ticket from 15,000 to 20,000.

Returns also indicated the complete triumph of the Greater New York fusion ticket, Charles Vincent Fornes, the nominee of the Citizens Union, and the Republicans for President of the board of Aldermen, defeating George M. Van Hoesen, the Democratic nominee. E. M. Grout, for the past four years Democratic President of the borough of Brooklyn, now the fusionist nominee for Comptroller, has also defeated W. W. Ladd, Jr., Democrat.

Cromwell Beat Muller.

Returns from the local, borough and county tickets were incomplete last night. Complete returns received from Staten Island, however, showed that Congressman Nicholas Muller has been defeated in his canvass for president of the borough of Richmond by George Cromwell, fusionist. In the borough of Queens, the election of Joseph Cassidy, Democrat, as president of the borough over Henry Doht, Republican, and Robert B. Lawrence, Citizens Union, is conceded. In the boroughs of Brooklyn, Manhattan and the Bronx, additional and possibly official returns will be required to determine the results for borough president and other local officers.

Reports received from the various sections of New York state show that the Republicans will retain control of the lower house of the state legislature, the number of Republican and Democratic assemblymen, not differing materially from the figures of preceding years. In the various municipal contests reported from up the state the most interesting elections noted were those of Albany, Troy, Rochester, Syracuse and Buffalo. The city of Albany was carried by the Republicans, ex-Senator David B. Hill taking an active part in the local canvass.

The election in Troy was a lively one, a number of arrests for illegal voting being made. Former U. S. Senator Murphy headed the fight for the candidate of the Democrats, while former Governor Black managed the campaign for the progressive Democratic-Republican ticket. Seymour Van Zantwood, the candidate for mayor, supported by ex-Gov. Black, was easily elected. In Buffalo, the entire Republican city and county tickets were elected. Erastus J. Knight, the state comptroller, being chosen mayor. The result in Rochester was close, but Mayor Warner's friends claim his election over the Republican candidate. In Syracuse Mayor McGuire, for a number of years past the Democratic mayor of the city,

SETH LOW.

was defeated by the Republican nominee.

Low Much Gratified.

Seth Low, at 9 o'clock last night, said at his home, where he was receiving election returns:

"I suppose it is safe to assume the result of the election is now assured. It bears out what my friends have anticipated and I am very much gratified by the result. This is a pleasant outcome of a hard struggle. I appreciate heartily the splendid support the newspapers have given this movement. I think they have been a splendid and important factor in bringing about the result."

Mr. Low said that to-day he and his wife were going to Great Barrington, Mass., where they would remain for the remainder of the week, if not for a longer time.

About 11 o'clock last night Mr. Low

gave out a formal statement in which he said:

Rebuke to Tammany, Said Low.

"The outcome of this election is a splendid vindication of universal suffrage. From all parts of the city have come the votes that have rebuked the Tammany orgie of the last four years. All the patronage of the city and limitless money have not availed against the aroused indignation of the people and it is safe to say that absentee government and government for the people and government for private gain will not be seen again in New York City for many a day. This is no man's triumph, but it is the people's victory. The agencies that have brought it about are many. Those who labored so long and so patiently to bring about the successful fusion of many elements and those who have supported the fusion so loyally are all entitled to the greatest credit. For myself I ask for the generous and constant support of the community in the great task to which it has summoned me."

Mr. Low was in receipt of hundreds of telegrams from prominent men, not only in the city, but also from different parts of the state and country, among them being congratulations from President Roosevelt and Senator Foraker, of Ohio.

Crocker Conceded Low's Election.

Richard Crocker, at 8:45 o'clock last night conceded the election of Seth Low, fusion candidate for mayor, but Mr. Crocker was not willing at that time to give up the county ticket.

He said he was much disappointed at the Brooklyn vote, as he had expected Mr. Shepard to make a good showing there, it being his home borough.

As to the causes for the defeat of the Democratic ticket, Mr. Crocker said he was inclined to ascribe it to the large silent vote and the fact that the people sometimes feel that they want a change.

Edward M. Shepard last night sent a telegram of congratulation to Mr. Low. His telegram read:

"With all sincerity I wish you the utmost success in the great office to which the people of Greater New York have called you."

A Statement by Shepard.

Mr. Shepard then dictated this statement for publication:

"I sincerely wish Mr. Low a thoroughly successful administration. The people have indicated their decided preference; not only is it the duty of every good citizen to cheerfully acquiesce in the result, but he should do his utmost to make the result beneficial to the city. All of us—Republicans and Democrats alike—should loyally hold up the hands of those whom the people have chosen in all good work on their part."

"Of course I regret the result, but trust that the munificent purposes which those who nominated me and I have had in mind may be realized even if in a manner different from that which we should have preferred."

"I thoroughly appreciate the efficient work done against adverse conditions by the Democratic organizations in five boroughs."

"I believe that the faith of the New York Democracy, notwithstanding this temporary defeat, is definitely set to a future of political reform which will at no distant day bring to the party merited honor and successes."

Crocker Said People Wanted Change.

At 10 o'clock last night Richard Crocker, again commenting on Mr. Shepard's defeat, said he could not ascribe it to any one issue. "The people wanted a change," said he, "and the organization bows to the will of the people. Tammany Hall has been in power for practically 17 years and if any one party were to remain in control for too long a period the tendency would be toward a perpetuation of power until the result would resemble a monarchy. Tammany has always prided by defeat and I hope will do so this time."

"Mr. Crocker said that all dissatisfied persons had voted against the Democratic nominee and that had contributed much to the result. As to his own plans for the immediate future he had nothing to say. He said, however, that Mr. Low would have the good wishes of the Democracy in his administration."

New York Supreme Judges.

The following is a list of the candidates elected judges of the supreme court in this state:

First district—Morgan J. O'Brien, re-elected (Fusion and Democrat). James A. Blauhaard (Fusion). John Proctor Clarke, re-elected (Fusion). Third district—A. V. Cochrane (Rep.). Fourth district—Edgar R. Spencer (Rep.). Sixth district—Garret A. Forbes, re-elected (Rep.). Charles E. Parker, re-elected (Rep.). Seventh district—William R. Adams, re-elected (Rep.).

MARYLAND.

Baltimore, Nov. 6.—At 1 o'clock this morning less than half the returns from the city are in. One hundred voting precincts give Hering (Dem.) for comptroller 11,000; Platt (Rep.) 12,186. The first legislative district of Baltimore city, with 69 precincts missing, gives the leading Republican candidate 3,822 votes, while the leading Democratic candidate has 3,804. The others range from 3,604 to 3,799, and the delegation is about evenly divided between the two parties, as indicated by the returns now in. The second district is probably Democratic, while the third is almost surely Republican. The figures from the counties come in very slowly. Montgomery is probably Democratic and it is claimed that the Democrats have elected their senatorial candidate in Alleghany.

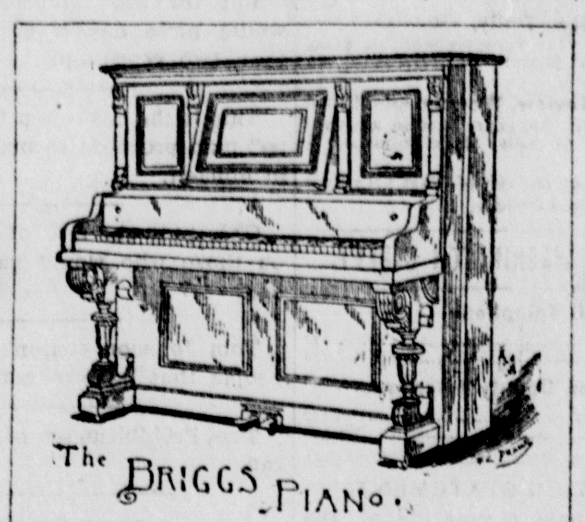

RHODE ISLAND.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 6.—Without any conclusive returns from the cities and towns through the state, it was generally conceded after the close of the polls at 7 o'clock, that Governor Gregory and the Republican state ticket are elected by a plurality of about 5,000. This is a loss of 3,000 from last year. The vote polled through the state was light.

Forty districts in Rhode Island outside of Providence give Gregory (Rep.) 5,288; Garvin (Dem.), 3,102, a net Republican loss over last year of over 1,000.

The 10-inch mill of the American Steel Hoop company at Mingo made 5,229 gross tons of steel bars during October, breaking all records, the former monthly record being 5,060 gross tons.

John Wilson, a noted horse thief who recently escaped from the Youngstown jail, is under arrest at Akron. He was captured by a detective while attempting to steal a farmer's rig at a picnic.

The citizens of Barnesville are greatly alarmed over the prevalence of smallpox there. Six cases have already been reported and the state board of health has been asked to take measures to prevent the disease from spreading further.

Karl Trunk and Jack Murphy, Martin's Ferry saloon keepers, were fined $50 and sentenced to 20 days in jail each, while John Mentz, Joseph Cvol, George Schad, John Neal and Herbert Schlosser each drew $100 and costs and $50 and costs on each of two counts for Sunday selling.

A Long Sleep.

Dr. Socar, an English physician, reported the case of a young girl of seventeen taken with syncope after a cold "tub" who slept for seven months in the hospital to which she was admitted. When she was aroused from sleep, she responded drowsily to questions put and fell asleep again. At the end of seven months she died of pneumonia, having slept herself out of life. Sometimes she was fed in her sleep and at other times while they kept her awake.

INSURANCE

Uneasy lies the head of the man who is not insured. To rest peacefully you need the consciousness that your property is protected by insurance that insures. During the past ten months 25 fire insurance companies have ceased doing business. Those that are retiring were the companies that were writing for a few cents less than the usual charge. Don't run the risk of having a policy which in event of loss may prove of no more value than a piece of waste paper. Our customers all rest peacefully.

THE RESULT IN OHIO.
Ohio has gone Republican by a plurality of from 50,000 to 60,000. A legislature Republican in both branches
has been elected. Hamilton county has indorsed progress and good government and even Lucas, the ancient Democratic stronghold, has been carried by Nash and the Republican legislative ticket. The election of Foraker as his own successor in the United States senate is assured and the continuance in office of an honest, wise
and economical state administration.
This is glory enough for one day,
and good citizens have every reason to be satisfied. It is unnecessary to point out that a still greater Republican victory was possible and might easily have been achieved. The light vote in most sections shows that conclusively. Had the Republicans mustered as nearly their full strength as did the Democrats, Nash would have been given a plurality rarely reached by any candidate in Ohio. But the state has demonstrated its Republicanism and done even better than was expected of it.

The national bearing of the election
must not be lost sight of. No sane man can doubt that the result in Ohio will inspire Republicans generally with zeal and courage. The magnificent work of the late lamented
McKinley has received splendid approval and the people of Ohio have made it plain to the world that they propose to stand loyally by his successor and do their part in sustaining him in carrying out McKinley's aims and policies. A manly fight has been waged by the Republicans and a most decisive victory won. We repeat that, in his showing, there is glory
enough for one day.

TAMMANY DOWNED.
The greatest victory for decency and
good order won at the polls on Tuesday was that of the Republicans' and citizens' ticket of New York over the hordes of Tammany. It places at the head of the metropolis of the new world a gentleman and a scholar who is also a business man of wide experience and great capability. Seth Low goes from the presidency of a great university to the mayoralty of Greater
New York. His opportunities for usefulness are extended, but a herculean task confronts him. But he is not the man to shrink from any labor, however arduous. It looks as if Tammany had killed the goose that laid the golden egg and pronounced its own doom.

A Toledo manufacturing concern
has received an order for steam shovels for South Africa. As soon as the Boer war ends, American manufacturers will be overwhelmed with orders from that region. It will be a costly job repairing war's damage, but there will be profit in it for those who get
the contracts.

Since Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Philippines and Cuba came under American protection exports to those countries have increased from $13,781,147
to $56,853,782. It is evident that trade
follows the flag.

The workmen are too busy to be discontented, hence the poor showing of the Ohio Democracy which thrives
only on popular discontent.

The Tammany Tiger has had his claws cut and is robbed of his power
for mischief for the present.

Leonard's majority was not as deep

as a well nor as wide as a church
door, but it may suffice.

Only the stay-at-homes are being censured. Let them alone; their own consciences ought to trouble them
enough.

But for the stay-at-homes Nash
would have had a greater plurality
than two years ago.

This is the day when the "I told you
so" man proceeds to make a nuisance
of himself.

Ohio puts the seal of condemnation on those who would haul down the flag.

Tom Johnson couldn't convince the people that he was not bluffing.

The Prohibitionist candidates also ran.

AT THE THEATER

The Amy Lee company appeared before another large audience at the Grand last night and gave a most pleasing performance, "The Clipper" being the bill. Miss Lee's part was an unusually strong one and was handled
in a manner that won her frequent applause. Others of the cast also gave clever interpretations of their parts.
Numerous specialties of a high order
interspersed the performance.

The Wrong Leg.

There was an eminent sergeant at law
some years ago who had a cork leg
that was a triumph of artistic deception. None but his intimates knew for certain which was the real and which was the sham limb. A wild young wag
of the "outer bar," who knew the sergeant pretty well, once thought to utilize this knowledge of the sergeant's secret to take in a green, newly fledged
young barrister. The sergeant was addressing a special jury at Westminster
in his usual earnest and vehement style, and the wag whispered to his neighbor:

"You see how hot old Buzfuz is over his case. Now, I'll bet you a sovereign I'll run this pin into his leg up to the head and he'll never notice it, he's so absorbed in his speech. He's a most extraordinary man in that way."

This was more than the greenhorn could swallow, so he took the bet. The wag took a large pin from his waistcoat and, leaning forward, drove it up to the head in the sergeant's leg. A yell
that froze the blood of all who heard it,
that made the hair of the jury stand on
end and the judge's wig almost fall off,
rang through the court.

"By Jove, it's the wrong leg! I've lost
my money," exclaimed the dismayed
and conscience stricken wag, quite regardless of the pain he had inflicted upon the learned sergeant.—London Answers.

To Judge the Age of Lace.

In fixing the approximate date of
any given piece of lace it is well to remember that machine made thread was not used till after the beginning of the eighteenth century. Before that time
the threads ran in lengths of about twenty inches, for the worker could stretch no farther than her distaff and had to break off and join again, so that after unravelling some twenty-five inches of thread no joint is found the lace is surely after the introduction of machine made thread. The "bride's ornament" alone are enough to go by. In the fifteenth century the bar had only
a knot or a dot as ornament, in the sixteenth a double or single loop and in the seventeenth a star. The edging also helps. A sharp angle in the scallop fixes the date in the middle ages,
the rounded scallop came in with the nineteenth century, with the seventeenth a dotted scallop, and the eighteenth century one is more elaborate,
a large alternating with a small scallop
and dots along in the center of each.—

Some Tyrolean Epitaphs.

A German traveler has discovered
some quaint epitaphs in a Tyrolean cemetery.

On a tombstone in a valley of Tux
was this inscription: "In pious remembrance of the honest widow Anna
Kriedl, forty years long."

A miller is thus remembered: "In Christian memory of H—, who departed this life without human assistance."

A farmer whose initials only are given and who appears to have been
the author of his own epitaph has this memorial: "Here rests in God P. K.
He lived twenty-six years as man and
thirty-seven years as husband."

On the tomb of a man who fell from a roof and was killed are these words:
"Here fell Jacob Hosenkopf from the roof into eternity."

This wall of a desolate husband caps
the climax: "Tears cannot bring thee
back to life. Therefore I weep."—

returned the ball 25 yards. Baker made six yards, Stephens 20 yards,
Little one yard. Two plays by Stoffel
for eight yards and Stephens shot
around the opposite end for 15 yards
and a touchdown after seven minutes
of play. Stoffel missed the goal. Score,
Y. M. C. A., 10; Bethany, 0.

Gordon kicked off to Little, who brought the ball back 20 yards and lost it on a forward pass. Bethany made 13 yards in five trials, but lost
the ball on downs. Then Y. M. C. A.
again started down the field. Moore,
Baker, Little and Stoffel carried the ball 50 yards. Then on a trick play
Moore skirted right end for 28 yards
and a touchdown. Stoffel kicked goal.
Score, Y. M. C. A., 16; Bethany, 0.

Gordon kicked off to Wood, who ran the ball back 20 yards. Little,
Moore, Stoffel, Booth and Stephens
now carried the ball 60 yards, but the ball was lost on downs.

Bethany made a few desperate attempts to gain, but could do little.
Time was called for the first half with the ball on Bethany's twenty-five yard line.

The second half found Wheatley and Dawson substituted for Booth and Moore. On the kick-off Wheatley returned the ball 35 yards.

In a few more plays, in which Wheatley, Little, Baker and Stoffel
figured, the ball was carried over for the fourth touchdown. Stoffel kicked the goal. Score, Y. M. C. A., 22; Bethany, 0.

Gordon kicked to Baker, who returned the kick 30 yards to Gordon,
who showed his ten-second clip by returning it 20 yards before he met the ground.

Bethany again treid to go through the Y. M. C. A. boys, but found it too difficult. Y. M. C. A. soon got the ball and by fast playing carried the ball 80 yards for the fifth touchdown. Stof-fel kicked the goal. Score, Y. M. C. A., 28; Bethany, 0.

Y. M. C. A. carried the ball back about 40 yards when time was up for the game.

The following shows the lineup of
the teams:

Y. M. C. A.—Left end, McLane; left tackle, Stephens; left guard, Stoffel; center, J. Stevenson; right guard, Swarbrick and Brown; right tackle, A. Stevenson; right end, Little; quarterback, Woods; right half, Booth and Wheatley; left half, Moore, Dawson and York; fullback, Baker.

Italians Love Tomatoes.

Italians more than any other people value tomatoes, and each one who comes to perfection is as carefully tended as though it were an apple of gold.
Not only do the housewives delight in
the fresh vegetables themselves, but,
generally speaking, those home tended
are better than any purchased at the market, and so each one is jealously saved to make tomato sauce for the spaghetti, without which no Italian
Sunday would be Sunday. One soapbox gardener one season sold enough tomatoes to give her quite a little pin money.
No one who knows the Italian well will
be surprised to learn that many of the boxes are devoted to peppers, for they
in truth furnish much of their spice of life, and even the little Italian girls know how to stuff and cook them in a dozen different ways that tempt the palate.—Boston Transcript.

Railroad Telegrams.

When a traveler in the grand duchy
of Baden, Germany, wants to send a telegram while he is in the train, he writes the message on a postcard, with the request that it be wired, puts on a stamp and drops it into the train letter
box. At the next station the box is cleared and the message sent out.

Matrimony and Eyes.

An old man was rallied by his friends,
on his marrying a young wife, on the inequality of their ages. He replied,
"She will be near me to close my eyes."
"Well," replied a friend, "I've had two of them, and they opened my eyes."—Exchange.

you are getting too old to play with little boys?
Edith—No, mamma; the older I get
the better I like them.—Tit-Bits.

The Consultation.

"My wife always consults me about
every article of attire she buys—frocks,

The Life of a Coal Miner.

First, the boy of eight or ten is sent to the breaker to pick the slate and other impurities from the coal which has been brought up from the mine. From there he is promoted and becomes a door boy, working in the mine. As he grows older and stronger he is advanced to the position and given the pay of a laborer. There he gains the experience which secures him a place as a miner's helper, and as he acquires skill and strength he becomes, when in the height of his manhood and vigor, a full fledged miner.

If he is fortunate enough to escape the falls of rock and gas, he may retain this position as a miner for a number of years. But as age creeps on and he is attacked by some of the many diseases incident to work in the mines he makes way for those younger and more vigorous following him up the ladder whose summit he has reached.
He then starts on the descent, going back to become a miner's helper, then a mine laborer, now a door boy, and when old and decrepit he finally returns to the breaker where he started as a child, earning the same wages as are received by the little urchins who work at his side. There is no incentive for ambition in the average miner's life. He cannot rise to places of eminence and wealth. Only 1 in 500 can even be given place as a foreman or superintendent, and these are positions which few miners care to hold.—
John Mitchell in Cosmopolitan.

For His Reputation, $500.

The proprietor of a large dry goods store had decided to tear down the old building and erect a new one in its stead. In furtherance of this plan he was removing his goods to temporary quarters in another building.

The goods were nearly all out of the old structure when from some unknown cause it caught fire. The department was promptly on hand and soon had a stream playing on the flames, but the merchant was wild with excitement. Running up to the chief, he urged him to greater haste.

"Never mind the goods!" he shouted.
"Save the building! I'll give the boys a check for $500 for their pension fund if they don't let the fire spread beyond that floor!"

"Why, you're going to tear the old building down anyway, aren't you?"
asked the chief.

"Yes," he said, "but do you suppose I want the insurance companies or anybody on earth to think that's the reason why it caught fire?"

By great exertion the fire was extinguished with little loss so far as the building was concerned, and the merchant was as good as his word.—

Dog and Wolf.

There has been some dispute as to the descent of the dog—whether it is an improved progeny of the wolf or a distinct variety. That it is a different species is proved by the fact that the dog and the wolf will mate and produce offspring. Nevertheless it is probable that the dog is merely descended from the same original stock with the wolf.

Isn't it Worth 25c. To Be Cured of Constipation

People who suffer from habitual constipation with all its attendant ills, clogged stomach and bowels, sluggish liver, heartburn, indigestion, and thin and impure blood, are too apt to believe that the only remedy is violent purgatives. The contrary is the case. Such cathartics, even if they do move the bowels, are irritating and griping, leave the stomach inflamed and enfeebled and the constipated condition recurs with greater difficulty of cure and the sufferer constantly growing worse. There is a laxative that moves the bowels without pain or griping, cleanses the stomach, sharpens the appetite, stimulates the liver, strengthens the nerves, and purifies the blood, while its marvellous tonic properties tone up the entire system and keep it healthy.

Laxakola Does It

Its remarkable tonic properties reach every organ—the liver, kidneys and stomach, nerve, heart and brain—and removes the cause of your debilitated condition. This is the only way to secure an absolute and permanent cure.

Laxakola is the only medicine for babies, is purely vegetable and its action is gentle, speedy and effective. For coated tongue, simple fevers, colds, chills and languid feeling it is the ideal medicine.

It tastes good.  Children like it and ask for it.
Laxakola, the great tonic laxative, is not only the most efficient of family remedies, but the most economical, because it combines two medicines, viz: laxative and tonic, and at one price. No other remedy gives so much for the money. At druggists, 25c. and 50c., or send for free sample to LAXAKOLA

THE RESULT IN OHIO.

Ohio has gone Republican by a plurality of from 50,000 to 60,000. A legislature Republican in both branches
has been elected. Hamilton county
has indorsed progress and good government and even Lucas, the ancient Democratic stronghold, has been carried by Nash and the Republican legislative ticket. The election of Foraker as his own successor in the United States senate is assured and the continuance in office of an honest, wise
and economical state administration.

This is glory enough for one day,
and good citizens have every reason
to be satisfied. It is unnecessary to point out that a still greater Republican victory was possible and might easily have been achieved. The light
vote in most sections shows that conclusively. Had the Republicans mustered as nearly their full strength as did the Democrats, Nash would have been given a plurality rarely reached by any candidate in Ohio. But the state has demonstrated its Republicanism and done even better than was expected of it.

The national bearing of the election
must not be lost sight of. No sane
man can doubt that the result in Ohio will inspire Republicans generally with zeal and courage. The magnificent work of the late lamented
McKinley has received splendid approval and the people of Ohio have made it plain to the world that they propose to stand loyally by his successor and do their part in sustaining
him in carrying out McKinley's aims
and policies. A manly fight has been waged by the Republicans and a most decisive victory won. We repeat
that, in his showing, there is glory
enough for one day.

TAMMANY DOWNED.

The greatest victory for decency and
good order won at the polls on Tuesday was that of the Republicans and
citizens' ticket of New York over the hordes of Tammany. It places at the head of the metropolis of the new world a gentleman and a scholar who
is also a business man of wide experience and great capability. Seth Low
goes from the presidency of a great university to the mayoralty of Greater
New York. His opportunities for usefulness are extended, but a herculean
task confronts him. But he is not the man to shrink from any labor, however arduous. It looks as if Tammany had killed the goose that laid the golden egg and pronounced its own doom.

A Toledo manufacturing concern
has received an order for steam shovels for South Africa. As soon as the Boer war ends, American manufacturers will be overwhelmed with orders
from that region. It will be a costly
job repairing war's damage, but there will be profit in it for those who get
the contracts.

Since Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Philippines and Cuba came under American protection exports to those countries have increased from $13,781,147
to $56,853,782. It is evident that trade
follows the flag.

The workmen are too busy to be
discontented, hence the poor showing
of the Ohio Democracy which thrives
only on popular discontent.

The Tammany Tiger has had his claws cut and is robbed of his power
for mischief for the present.

Leonard's majority was not as deep

as a well nor as wide as a church
door, but it may suffice.

Only the stay-at-homes are being
censured. Let them alone; their own consciences ought to trouble them
enough.

But for the stay-at-homes Nash
would have had a greater plurality
than two years ago.

This is the day when the "I told you
so" man proceeds to make a nuisance
of himself.

Ohio puts the seal of condemnation
on those who would haul down the flag.

Tom Johnson couldn't convince the people that he was not bluffing.

The Prohibitionist candidates also ran.

OBITUARY.

Mabel Viola, the 10-year-old daughter of J. Davidson, died at her home at Calcutta yesterday afternoon after an illness with quinsy. The funeral services will be held at her late home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock

Run cemetery.

AT THE THEATER

The Amy Lee company appeared
before another large audience at the Grand last night and gave a most pleasing performance, "The Clipper"
being the bill. Miss Lee's part was an unusually strong one and was handled
in a manner that won her frequent applause. Others of the cast also gave clever interpretations of their parts.
Numerous specialties of a high order
interspersed the performance.

The Wrong Leg.

There was an eminent sergeant at law
some years ago who had a cork leg
that was a triumph of artistic deception. None but his intimates knew for certain which was the real and which was the sham limb. A wild young wag
of the "outer bar," who knew the sergeant pretty well, once thought to ultimate this knowledge of the sergeant's secret to take in a green, newly fledged
young barrister. The sergeant was addressing a special jury at Westminster
in his usual earnest and vehement style, and the wag whispered to his neighbor:

"You see how hot old Buzfuz is over
his case. Now, I'll bet you a sovereign
I'll run this pin into his leg up to the head and he'll never notice it, he's so absorbed in his speech. He's a most extraordinary man in that way."

This was more than the greenhorn
could swallow, so he took the bet. The wag took a large pin from his waist-
coat and, leaning forward, drove it up to the head in the sergeant's leg. A yell
that froze the blood of all who heard it,
that made the hair of the jury stand on
end and the judge's wig almost fall off,
rang through the court.

"By Jove, it's the wrong leg! I've lost
my money," exclaimed the dismayed
and conscience-stricken wag, quite regardless of the pain he had inflicted upon the learned sergeant.—London Answers.

To Judge the Age of Lace.

In fixing the approximate date of
any given piece of lace it is well to remember that machine made thread was not used till after the beginning of the eighteenth century. Before that time
the threads ran in lengths of about twenty inches, for the worker could
stretch no farther than her distaff and
had to break off and join again, so that after unraveling some twenty-five inches of thread no joint is found the lace is surely after the introduction of machine made thread. The "bride's ornament" alone are enough to go by. In
the fifteenth century the bar had only
a knot or a dot as ornament, in the sixteenth a double or single loop and
in the seventeenth a star. The edging
also helps. A sharp angle in the scallop fixes the date in the middle ages,
the rounded scallop came in with the
nineteenth century, with the seventeenth a dotted scallop, and the eighteenth century one is more elaborate,
a large alternating with a small scallop
and dots along in the center of each.—

Some Tyrolean Epitaphs.

A German traveler has discovered
some quaint epitaphs in a Tyrolean
cemetery.

On a tombstone in a valley of Tux
was this inscription: "In pious remembrance of the honest widow Anna
Kriedl, forty years long."

A miller is thus remembered: "In Christian memory of H—, who departed this life without human assistance."

A farmer whose initials only are
given and who appears to have been
the author of his own epitaph has this memorial: "Here rests in God F. K.
He lived twenty-six years as man and
thirty-seven years as husband."

On the tomb of a man who fell from
a roof and was killed are these words:
"Here fell Jacob Hosenkoppf from the roof into eternity."

This wall of a desolate husband caps
the climax: "Tears cannot bring thee
back to life. Therefore I weep."— Household Words.

This would be a much more peaceful world if lots of grown up people as well as children could only be seen and not heard.—Chicago News.

returned the ball 25 yards. Baker
made six yards, Stephens 20 yards.
Little one yard. Two plays by Stoffel
for eight yards and Stephens shot
around the opposite end for 15 yards
and a touchdown after seven minutes
of play. Stoffel missed the goal. Score,
Y. M. C. A., 10; Bethany, 0.

Gordon kicked off to Little, who brought the ball back 20 yards and lost it on a forward pass. Bethany
made 13 yards in five trials, but lost
the ball on downs. Then Y. M. C. A.
again started down the field. Moore,
Baker, Little and Stoffel carried the ball 50 yards. Then on a trick play
Moore skirted right end for 28 yards
and a touchdown. Stoffel kicked goal.
Score, Y. M. C. A., 16; Bethany, 0.

Gordon kicked off to Wood, who ran the ball back 20 yards. Little,
Moore, Stoffel, Booth and Stephens
now carried the ball 60 yards, but the ball was lost on downs.

Bethany made a few desperate attempts to gain, but could do little.
Time was called for the first half with
the ball on Bethany's twenty-five yard
line.

The second half found Wheatley and Dawson substituted for Booth and Moore. On the kick-off Wheatley returned the ball 35 yards.

In a few more plays, in which
Wheatley, Little, Baker and Stoffel
figured, the ball was carried over for
the goal. Score, Y. M. C. A., 22; Bethany, 0.

Gordon kicked to Baker, who returned the kick 30 yards to Gordon,
who showed his ten-second clip by returning it 20 yards before he met the ground.

Bethany again tried to go through the Y. M. C. A. boys, but found it too difficult. Y. M. C. A. soon got the ball
and by fast playing carried the ball 80 yards for the fifth touchdown. Stoffel kicked the goal. Score, Y. M. C. A., 28; Bethany, 0.

Y. M. C. A. carried the ball back
about 40 yards when time was up for
the game.

The following shows the lineup of
the teams:

Y. M. C. A.—Left end, Mc-
left guard, Stoffel; center, J.
Stevenson; right guard, Swarbrick and Brown; right tackle, A. Stevenson; right end, Little; quarterback, Woods; right half, Booth and Wheatley; left half, Moore, Dawson and York; fullback, Baker.

Bethany College—Left end, Cass or Gibson; left tackle, Bowman; left guard, Mallady; center, Johnston;
right guard, Blood; right tackle, Pierce; right end, Erskine; quarterback, Magee; left half, Barger and Fisher; right half, Stucky; fullback,

Italians Love Tomatoes.

Italians more than any other people value tomatoes, and each one that comes to perfection is as carefully tended as though it were an apple of gold.
Not only do the housewives delight in
the fresh vegetables themselves, but,
generally speaking, those home tended
are better than any purchased at the
saved to make tomatoe sauce for the spaghetti, without which no Italian
Sunday would be Sunday. One soapbox gardeners one season sold enough tomatoes to give her quite a little pin money.
No one who knows the Italian well will
be surprised to learn that many of the
boxes are devoted to peppers, for they
in truth furnish much of their spice of life, and even the little Italian girls
know how to stuff and cook them in a dozen different ways that tempt the palate.—Boston Transcript.

Railroad Telegrams.

When a traveler in the grand duchy
of Baden, Germany, wants to send a telegram while he is in the train, he writes the message on a postcard, with
the request that it be wired, puts on a stamp and drops it into the train letter
box. At the next station the box is cleared and the message sent out.

Matrimony and Eyes.

An old man was rallied by his friends,
on his marrying a young wife, on the inequality of their ages. He replied,
"She will be near me to close my eyes."
"Well," replied a friend, "I've had
two of them, and they opened my eyes."—Exchange.

Smart Girl.

Her Mother—Edith, don't you think you are getting too old to play with little boys?
Edith—No, mamma; the older I get
the better I like them.—Tit-Bits.

The Consultation.

"My wife always consults me about
every article of attire she buys—frocks, hats, shoes, gloves, everything."
"My wife does, too—that is, she asks me for the money."

An Anxious Inquiry.

When little three-year-old Ada was

Dog and Wolf.

There has been some dispute as to
the descent of the dog—whether it is
an improved progeny of the wolf or a distinct variety. That it is a different

Isn't it Worth 25c. To Be Cured of Constipation

People who suffer from habitual constipation with all its attendant ills,
clogged stomach and bowels, sluggish liver, heartburn, indigestion, and thin
and impure blood, are too apt to believe that the only remedy is violent purgatives. The contrary is the case. Such cathartics, even if they do move
the bowels, are irritating and griping, leave the stomach inflamed and enfeebled
and the constipated condition recurs with greater difficulty of cure and the sufferer constantly growing worse. There is a laxative that moves the bowels without pain or griping, cleanses the stomach, sharpens the appetite, stimulates the liver, strengthens the nerves, and purifies the blood, while its marvellous tonic properties tone up the entire system and keep it healthy.

Laxakola Does It

Its remarkable tonic properties reach every organ—the liver, kidneys and stomach, nerve, heart and brain—and removes the cause of your debilitated condition. This is the only way to secure an absolute and permanent cure.

Laxakola is the only medicine for babies, is purely vegetable and its action is gentle, speedy and effective. For coated tongue, simple fevers, colds, chills and languid feeling it is the ideal medicine.

It tastes good.  Children like it and ask for it.

Laxakola, the great tonic laxative, is not only the most efficient of family remedies, but the most economical, because it combines two medicines, viz: laxative and tonic, and at one price. No other remedy gives so much for the money. At druggists, 25c. and 50c., or send for free sample to LAXAKOLA Co., 122 Nassau Street, N. Y., or 356 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

WELLSVILLE

THE COSMORAMA

PRESENTED IN FINE STYLE A SECOND TIME.

List of Young Ladies Taking Part in the Performance.

The second presentation of a Cosmorama or the Merchants' carnival was given in the opera house last night to an unusually large crowd. Each of the 70 girls who had a part in the performance displayed ease and grace. The loud bursts of applause showed full well the appreciation of the audience. Almost every business and profession in the city was represented by one or more girls. Those who took part in the entertainment were:

BOND ISSUE DEFEATED

Proposition to Issue $60,000 Was Carried Only in One Ward.

It is no longer a question as to whether the city must be bonded for an additional amount of $60,000 for the purpose of placing a new water works system. The issue was completely obliterated at the polls yesterday. The Third ward was the only one of the five that carried in favor of the issuance of the bonds.

Below is given the number of votes cast for and against in the several wards:

First ward—For, 73; against, 117.
Second ward—For, 76; against, 128.
Third ward—For, 79; against, 165.
Fourth ward—For, 100; against, 137.
Fifth ward—For, 113; against, 110.

Water Works Trustees Met.

Water Works Trustees Maloney and Rogers met in the city building last evening and ordered the general expense bill of $739.73 paid. Also the bill of $23,613 for the improvements being made.

Fine New House.

Newton Turner's elegant pressed brick house, now under construction on Seventh street, will be finished in a short time. All of the masonry work is completed. It is up to date in every manner.

Missionary Society Met.

The Woman's Home Missionary society of the M. E. church held their regular monthly meeting with Mrs. McCann last evening. Officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year.

Tuesday Night Club Meeting.

The Tuesday Night club was entertained at the home of John Deldrick last night. The evening was spent very enjoyably in whist and in social chat.

Sorry She Did It.

Mrs. Charles Ward, of East Liverpool, who, it is alleged, took poison Monday night at the Dennis restaurant on Third street, because her husband had been drinking, has recovered and is now reported to be very sorry. She and her husband left for down the river yesterday.

The Vote Was Light.

The total number of votes cast in Wellsville was 1,243, which shows a decrease of at least 200 compared with previous years. The Prohibitionists polled 40 votes; Union Reform, 6; Socialist Labor, 1; Socialist, 6.

MINOR NEWS OF WELLSVILLE.

Gulzot's Father.

Gulzot lived through the most eventful periods of modern France. He was born in 1787 amid the mutterings of the revolution. Gulzot's parents were married by a proscribed Protestant pastor, and his birth was never legally registered. His father, who was an advocate, used his talent for public speaking in the interests of the persecuted Protestants and became a marked man. After living for several weeks in danger of his life he was at last arrested, unwillingly enough, by a gendarme who knew and respected him.

"Shall I let you escape?" said the man.

"Are you married?" replied M. Gulzot.

"Yes. I have two children."

"And so have I," replied the prisoner, "but you would have to pay for me. Let us go on."

They went on, and M. Gulzot died on the scaffold a few days later. At this time Francois, the future statesman, who was the elder of the two children, was six and a half years old and always preserved the recollection of going to see his father in prison, or what was emphatically called the house of justice.—Gentleman's Magazine.

Blue Predominant.

He was from the country and stood helplessly before the haughty young lady clerk of the downtown store.

"What do you want, please?" she demanded icily.

He gulped down his embarrassment, for he was hopelessly young and shy and awkward, and she was a most superior looking creature.

"I want twelve yards of blue predominant," he finally said.

"What?" demanded the startled clerk.

"Twelve yards of b-b-blue predominant," he stammered again.

"I'm sure I don't know what you mean," said the clerk. Then, womanly kindness and intuition getting the better of her hauteur, she said, "Tell me just what it was your mother or your sister told you to bring."

He gave a sigh of relief and said: "They wanted some wash goods for my little sister's dress. They said they were not so particular as to quality and color, just so I got blue predominant. Can't I get it here?"—Memphis Scimitar.

INDICTMENT FOUND AGAINST W. C. JUTTE

The Pittsburger Accused of Forgery in the Bridge Matter.

BY HANCOCK GRAND JURY

The Controversy Over a Release of Judgment Amounting to $21,000. The Sequel to Protracted Litigation.

At the sitting of the grand jury of Hancock county, W. Va., at New Cumberland, a true bill for forgery was found against W. C. Jutte, of Pittsburgh.

At about the time Jutte purchased the East Liverpool bridge stock it appears that John Shrader executed a release of judgment which he held against the bridge company and which amounted to about $21,000.

On January 1, 1901, Jutte's attorney, Henry C. Davis, it is alleged, presented to A. S. Cooper, clerk of courts of Hancock county, a writing which appeared to be an assignment of judgment for $21,000 with the name of W. S. Smoot as the party to whom judgment was assigned.

Mr. Shrader denies that he ever executed an assignment of judgment and that the name of W. S. Smoot was inserted without his consent or knowledge and that the word "release" was erased from the writing and that the word "assigned" was substituted.

NEW FRANCHISE

FOR THE SOUTHSIDE WATER CO. PROPOSED.

Ordinance Likely to Be Introduced in Chester Council Tomorrow.

It is probable that at the session of the Chester council, to be held tomorrow evening a new franchise ordinance will be introduced, granting to the Southside Water company permission to install a plant and lay its mains.

The ordinance will be posted and advertised in compliance with the recent court decision at New Cumberland in which the injunction proceedings were maintained. Whether the water company will ask better terms than under the franchise that was rejected by the court has not been definitely declared, but it is likely that a reasonable petition will be presented.

The Ohio Valley Gas company will be granted a franchise in accordance with the informal vote which was taken 30 days ago. The gas people have already laid their mains and pipes.

Solicitor Marshall will inform the council of the action in the case at New Cumberland, also have the health ordinances in readiness for passage.

FAST DRIVING

Two Men Arrested And One Fined for Indulging in That Pastime on the Bridge.

J. S. Pauley stopped two men Monday evening for fast driving on the bridge. P. S. Gilliland and a companion were coming from the West Virginia side at a rapid rate of speed. They were turned over by Mr. Pauley to the custody of Officer Dawson, who took them to the mayor's office. Mayor Davidson fined Gilliland $1 and costs.

Mr. Pauley says that fast driving is getting to be an annoyance and that arrests will be promptly made to stop the practice.

Free to Peddle.

The case of George Prince, charged with hawking produce in the streets of Chester without having a county license, was heard last evening. The jury found Prince not guilty. It was concluded by the jury that Prince had labored under the impression that he was free to peddle under the city license of $10, which had been assessed against him.

CHESTER NOTES.

Women Are Unpatriotic Who Will Not Vote

By CARRIE CHAPMAN CATT, President National American Woman Suffrage Association

NE hundred years ago the average woman was a manufacturer in the home. All articles of common use were made by the women, and the men earned whatever money was spent, which was very little. If there was any difference in the dignity of the work, it was on the side of the women, and they were happy and contented with the importance of their employment.

They say that women have no time for politics, but the time saved on the making of men's shirts alone would give them enough leisure to become familiar with every political question. One by one the occupations of the home have been taken away, not because women did not want them, but because of the march of commerce. And what are the women going to do? Their sphere has changed.

Did you ever hear of a platform of a great political party which did not say somewhere in it that the party was the friend of the workingman? Never one. It is because the laboring men have votes, and that is what the party wants. Women are not in a position to ask favors of them because they have none to grant in return.

Women should vote because they have no right to be exonerated from taking their full share in the government and administration of this country. EVERY WOMAN WHO SAYS THAT SHE DOES NOT WANT TO VOTE IS UNPATRIOTIC. SHE IS THE CREATURE THE PUBLIC HAS EDUCATED, AND SHE REFUSES TO GIVE TO SOCIETY THAT WHICH SOCIETY HAS GIVEN TO HER. It is the duty of every man and should be the right of every woman to place in the ballot box his or her highest aspirations for the good of the nation.

THE ARTFUL SALAD

Costly and Substantial Meat Salads Are the Prose of Salad Building. There Are Others in Which Delicate Fancy May Revel Galore.

Ruth Ames thought she knew a good deal about salads. She had had a girl's usual experience along this line, and had compounded mayonnaise and French dressings, and had prepared chicken, lobster and even salmon salad. Potato salad, too, she could make, and tomato salad, so that she flattered herself she had a pretty good knowledge of this branch of cookery, which, to tell the truth, she regarded as quite as much ornamental as useful.

It was in the warm days that Ruth began to learn how many salads were

For an especially attractive dish that was not very expensive Ruth made a tomato jelly and cucumber salad. The jelly was made by pouring a pint of boiling tomato liquor upon a half box of gelatin that had been soaked an hour in a cupful of cold water. The tomato liquor could be made from fresh tomatoes or drained from the can, and was improved by having boiled in it for half an hour a bay leaf, a slice of onion, a sprig of parsley and a couple of cloves. The mixture was strained again and seasoned to taste with salt and a little red pepper. When

NUTS AND EGGS—JELLIED CUCUMBERS. The jelly thus made was cold and beginning to form, it was poured into a mold that had been lined with sliced cucumbers. Other slices of cucumbers were put through it and it was put into a cold place until perfectly cold and hard. It could then be turned out and served with or without a garnish of lettuce leaves.

A fruit salad was Ruth's especial pride. She knew how to make several varieties, and fed her family with salad of grape fruit, of oranges, bananas and nuts.—New Ideal Woman's Magazine.

Wood Too Hard to Burn.

There are certain kinds of wood that are too hard to burn, or refuse to ignite for some other reason, such as ironwood and the good brier root, but it is a curiosity to come across a piece of common deal—the soft, light wood of which so many boxes are made—that cannot be set fire to.

The piece of wood in question was common white deal from Sweden, but was remarkable for its comparative weight. It had formed part of a boat belonging to a whaler and had been dragged below the surface of the water to the depth of more than half a mile by a harpooned whale. The length of line and the short distance from the point of descent after being struck at which the whale rose to the surface was a proof of the depth to which it had dragged the boat.

Only part of the boat came up again at the end of the line, and it was taken on board when the whale had been killed. That piece of wood was so hard that it would not burn in a gas jet. The weight of water had compressed it.—London Standard.

The Color of Wood.

A simple way to restore color to wood is to mix the color with oil and turpentine, applying with a soft cloth and rubbing in well. Either the powdered pigment or colors ground in oil may be used. For light oak use raw umber, for dark oak burnt umber. If it is very dark, add a mere shade of lampblack. For mahogany use burnt sienna, chrome yellow and bismarck brown, and for cherry use burnt sienna.

"I'm sure I don't know what you mean," said the clerk. Then, womanly kindness and intuition getting the better of her hauteur, she said, "Tell me just what it was your mother or your sister told you to bring."

He gave a sigh of relief and said:

"They wanted some wash goods for my little sister's dress. They said they were not so particular as to quality and color, just so I got blue predominant. Can't I get it here?"—Memphis Scimitar.

INDICTMENT FOUND AGAINST W. C. JUTTE

The Pittsburgher Accused of Forgery in the Bridge Matter.

BY HANCOCK GRAND JURY

The Controversy Over a Release of Judgment Amounting to $21,000. The Sequel to Protracted Litigation.

At the sitting of the grand jury of Hancock county, W. Va., at New Cumberland, a true bill for forgery was found against W. C. Jutte, of Pittsburgh.

At about the time Jutte purchased the East Liverpool bridge stock it appears that John Shrader executed a release of judgment which he held against the bridge company and which amounted to about $21,000.

On January 1, 1901, Jutte's attorney, Henry C. Davis, it is alleged, presented to A. S. Cooper, clerk of courts of Hancock county, a writing which appeared to be an assignment of judgment for $21,000 with the name of W. S. Smoot as the party to whom judgment was assigned.

Mr. Shrader denies that he ever executed an assignment of judgment and that the name of W. S. Smoot was inserted without his consent or knowledge and that the word "release" was erased from the writing and that the word "assigned" was substituted.

NEW FRANCHISE

FOR THE SOUTHSIDE WATER CO. PROPOSED.

Ordinance Likely to Be Introduced in Chester Council Tomorrow.

It is probable that at the session of the Chester council, to be held tomorrow evening a new franchise ordinance will be introduced, granting to the Southside Water company permission to install a plant and lay its mains.

The ordinance will be posted and advertised in compliance with the recent court decision at New Cumberland in which the injunction proceedings were maintained. Whether the water company will ask better terms than under the franchise that was rejected by the court has not been definitely declared, but it is likely that a reasonable petition will be presented.

The Ohio Valley Gas company will be granted a franchise in accordance with the informal vote which was taken 30 days ago. The gas people have already laid their mains and pipes.

Solicitor Marshall will inform the council of the action in the case at New Cumberland, also have the health ordinances in readiness for passage.

FAST DRIVING

Two Men Arrested And One Fined for Indulging in That Pastime on the Bridge.

J. S. Pauley stopped two men Monday evening for fast driving on the bridge. P. S. Gilliland and a companion were coming from the West Virginia side at a rapid rate of speed. They were turned over by Mr. Pauley to the custody of Officer Dawson, who took them to the mayor's office. Mayor Davidson fined Gilliland $1 and costs.

Mr. Pauley says that fast driving is getting to be an annoyance and that arrests will be promptly made to stop the practice.

Free to Peddle.

The case of George Prince, charged with hawking produce in the streets of Chester without having a county license, was heard last evening. The jury found Prince not guilty. It was concluded by the jury that Prince had labored under the impression that he was free to peddle under the city license of $10, which had been assessed against him.

Women Are Unpatriotic Who Will Not Vote

By CARRIE CHAPMAN CATT, President National American Women Suffrage Association

NE hundred years ago the average woman was a manufacturer in the home. All articles of common use were made by the women, and the men earned whatever money was spent, which was very little. If there was any difference in the dignity of the work, it was on the side of the women, and they were happy and contented with the importance of their employment.

THEY SAY NOW THAT WOMEN THROW MEN OUT OF WORK. THERE WAS NEVER A GREATER MISTAKE. FROM EVERY POINT MEN HAVE FORCED WOMEN OUT OF EMPLOYMENT BY THE INTRODUCTION OF MACHINERY WHICH PERFORMS DOMESTIC DUTIES.

They say that women have no time for politics, but the time saved on the making of men's shirts alone would give them enough leisure to become familiar with every political question. One by one the occupations of the home have been taken away, not because women did not want them, but because of the march of commerce. And what are the women going to do? Their sphere has changed.

Did you ever hear of a platform of a great political party which did not say somewhere in it that the party was the friend of the workingman? Never one. It is because the laboring men have votes, and that is what the party wants. Women are not in a position to ask favors of them because they have none to grant in return.

Women should vote because they have no right to be exonerated from taking their full share in the government and administration of this country. EVERY WOMAN WHO SAYS THAT SHE DOES NOT WANT TO VOTE IS UNPATRIOTIC. SHE IS THE CREATURE THE PUBLIC HAS EDUCATED, AND SHE REFUSES TO GIVE TO SOCIETY THAT WHICH SOCIETY HAS GIVEN TO HER. It is the duty of every man and should be the right of every woman to place in the ballot box his or her highest aspirations for the good of the nation.

THE ARTFUL SALAD

Costly and Substantial Meat Salads Are the Prose of Salad Making. There Are Others in Which Delicate Fancy May Revel Galore.

Ruth Ames thought she knew a good deal about salads. She had had a girl's usual experience along this line, and had compounded mayonnaise and French dressings, and had prepared chicken, lobster and even salmon salad. Potato salad, too, she could make, and tomato salad, so that she flattered herself she had a pretty good knowledge of this branch of cookery, which, to tell the truth, she regarded as quite as much ornamental as useful.

It was in the warm days that Ruth began to learn how many salads were

COTTAGE CHEESE—LETTUCE AND RADISHES. Within reach of the average housekeeper and how cheaply they could be made. Her mental concept of salads had always been of a rather expensive dish, which was reserved for grand occasions.

Even the ordinary green salads had not been an everyday matter, by any means, for Mrs. Ames' housekeeping had a little of the old fashioned flavor about it, and if she served lettuce at dinner it was as a side dish rather than as a separate course. Such a thing as making a salad the principal dish at luncheon or even at Sunday night tea had never occurred to her. This was one of the innovations Ruth introduced.

Chicken salad and lobster salad she regarded rather as expensive as company salad, but there were others that were no less attractive in appearance and taste which were far less costly. There was an almost endless variety of salads to be made from tomatoes—tomato baskets stuffed with chopped cucumber, with shrimps, with celery and apple, with green peas, with nuts and apples; the variety seemed endless.

Cold meat of almost any kind if well seasoned seemed to make a good stuffing for tomatoes. Tomatoes sliced with cucumbers, sliced with shredded green peppers and stoned olives and served on lettuce; tomatoes with cold fish if temptingly arranged compose a salad that appeals both to eye and palate.

Cottage cheese also made into balls was served on lettuce as a salad, and was improved by the addition to the dressing of a few anchovies or olives to give a little more zest to the dish. One of the prettiest of these simpler salads was of lettuce or escarole dressed with a French dressing, to which had been added a modicum of chives, the lettuce garnished with small crisp radishes cut into simulated roses with a few strokes of the knife.

For an especially attractive dish that was not very expensive Ruth made a tomato jelly and cucumber salad. The jelly was made by pouring a pint of boiling tomato liquor upon a half box of gelatin that had been soaked an hour in a cupful of cold water. The tomato liquor could be made from fresh tomatoes or drained from the can, and was improved by having boiled in it for half an hour a bay leaf, a slice of onion, a sprig of parsley and a couple of cloves. The mixture was strained again and seasoned to taste with salt and a little red pepper. When

NUTS AND EGGS—JELLIED CUCUMBERS.

The jelly thus made was cold and beginning to form, it was poured into a mold that had been lined with sliced cucumbers. Other slices of cucumbers were put through it and it was put into a cold place until perfectly cold and hard. It could then be turned out and served with or without a garnish of lettuce leaves.

A fruit salad was Ruth's especial pride. She knew how to make several varieties, and fed her family with salad of grape fruit, of oranges, bananas and nuts.—New Ideal Woman's Magazine.

There are certain kinds of wood that are too hard to burn, or refuse to ignite for some other reason, such as ironwood and the good brier root, but it is a curiosity to come across a piece of common deal—the soft, light wood of which so many boxes are made—that cannot be set fire to.

The piece of wood in question was common white deal from Sweden, but was remarkable for its comparative weight. It had formed part of a boat belonging to a whaler and had been dragged below the surface of the water to the depth of more than half a mile by a harpooned whale. The length of line and the short distance from the point of descent after being struck at which the whale rose to the surface was a proof of the depth to which it had dragged the boat.

Only part of the boat came up again at the end of the line, and it was taken on board when the whale had been killed. That piece of wood was so hard that it would not burn in a gas jet. The weight of water had compressed it.—London Standard.

The Color of Wood.

A simple way to restore color to wood is to mix the color with oil and turpentine, applying with a soft cloth and rubbing in well. Either the powdered pigment or colors ground in oil may be used. For light oak use raw umber, for dark oak burnt umber. If it is very dark, add a mere shade of lampblack. For mahogany use burnt sienna, chrome yellow and bismarck brown, and for cherry use burnt sienna.

"That Estelle becomes my wife within a month. You now understand that Estelle, and she alone, can save you," Evariste concluded, as he had begun, speaking coldly, deliberately, precisely. "You are a prince in generosity, my dear friend. I am overwhelmed by your munificence. You give me life, peace and health, and in return I can give you only an old man's thankfulness." Latolais in a transport of gratitude rose and started to embrace Evariste, but in sheer weakness reeled and would have fallen to the floor had not the young man caught him and returned him to his chair.

"Certainly I do," he replied, half weeping, half laughing. "She, dear child, will be honored and overjoyed, and she will be as grateful as I am. To save her grandfather and become the happy wife of the noble and great hearted M. Oakfell. Ha, ha, ha, ha! Oh, I promise, I promise her consent."

"Attend, monsieur. This is Wednesday. On Saturday next at 4 o'clock I will call on Mlle. Latolais and ask her hand in marriage. Her answer will decide the matter we have discussed to-day."

"Will you not come in time to dine with us?" said Latolais almost affectionately.

"No; that can await her answer," Evariste curtly replied.

"Never fear the answer, M. Evariste. It will be as you wish. Is all this agreeable to Constant?"

"It is. He wants his money; that is all. Eh, Quillebert?"

"Hence!" grunted the latter, waking from the torpor into which he had suffered the room to state him since he had been left out of the conversation.

"Then," said Latolais, "let us drink to amity, peace and happiness for us three."

"No," Evariste objected; "you must not drink until this matter is concluded."

"I will do the needful drinking, Leonidas," said Quillebert, refilling his glass. "You make sure of Evariste's bride."

"Well, my kind friends, I must go to my grandchild. I am grateful and happy."

Neither accompanied him out of the room. Dede assisted him into his buggy, gave him the reins, started the horse homeward and stood in the doorway gazing after him and wondering by what miracle it was that he left the cabaret sober.

How long the buggy and patient horse had stood in the shade of a spreading umbrella china tree beside the home gate was not known. A passerby, receiving from the proverbially polite old man no acknowledgment of his salute, looked attentively into his face and discovered that Leonidas Latolais was unconscious, though sitting erect on the buggy seat, holding the reins loosely in his hands. The household was alarmed, and he was tenderly lifted and conveyed to his chamber. The breathing was deep and regular, the limbs were warm and mobile, but a heavy sleep seemed to have settled upon him, from which he could not be awakened. Dr. Tougarre, the family physician, after vain experiments with black coffee, limited his treatment to such medication as would sustain the patient's strength and trusted to nature and perfect rest for the restoration of the mental faculties, strictly enjoining absolute quiet. Thus for days the stricken man lay mute and almost motionless, rousing only sufficiently to receive nutriment, and no word had escaped his lips when the day and hour arrived, so fateful to him and his ward, set by Evariste for the visit of weal or woe.

CHAPTER XIX. CASSANDRA SURVIVES TRY.

THE midday meal had been eaten, coffee had been served on the veranda to Estelle and Father Grhe, whom she had persuaded to prolong his duty call at the afflicted home. Suffering was depicted in her face, but also the meek resignation of the martyr. The priest, whose breadth of girth had grown in the pinching times of war, but whose hair had thinned and was whitening, inhaled the smoke of perique from a long pipe with evident satisfaction, though a look of protest seemed to have settled upon his benignant countenance. Odette, matured and grave, sat on a cypress block outside the gate, listlessly looking up and down the deserted road. The warm languor of spring was in the air, the hush of tropical noon was on all the scene.

"My child," said Father Grhe, "the life of a Discalced Carmelite nun is one of unutterable severity. It is but a breathing death. Her cell is, in fact, a grave, her convent a cemetery. More than figuratively she is dead to the world. She can scarce be called a shade of her former self, inured behind walls and grates, barefoot, shorn, her sight riveted to the ground, subsisting on crusts dogs would scarce eat. Were I pope the order should be abolished. Think of some other—a Sister of Charity, a Little Sister of the Poor, a Sister of the Sacred Heart. Any of these serves God by serving his children in the world he made for them."

"It is your tender heart, father, which counsels," she replied, "and it cannot fully know the needs and cravings of my spirit. To mingle with the world even on pious errands must always remind me in some degree of what I have lost, of what I have suffered. Forgiveness of wrongs, forgetfulness of sorrows, absorption in God the Consoler, will soonest come in the cell of the discalced nun. And it may be there my soul will soonest be chastened and reared."

"I fear it is the latter hope which most recruits the order," sighed the priest.

"Let not the subject disturb you further for the present, father," she said, "for I will stay by my poor grandfather to the end, as I promised, and possibly then I may be able to see as you do. Will M. Quillebert, you think, be cruel enough to disturb grandpere while he is so ill?"

"Cruel enough, yes, but scarcely bold enough to risk the indignation of the people."

"And can you believe M. Evariste will fulfill his threat of coming here again and repeating his demand upon me? Can you believe he will after what I said to him, as I have told you?"

"I fear he will have the hardihood and meanness to do so. Whatever of manliness and generosity he may have had in former years seems to have been educated out of him by his tutelage to Quillebert," answered Father Grhe, with a bitterness for which he atoned that night with 30 Ave Marias and three readings of the daily office.

"Then, I pray you to stay here, father, as late as you can. I will not ask you to be present at the dread interview, but I shall have courage from knowing you are near."

"Fear not, daughter. I will remain."

"Oh, I wish it was over," she whispered, shuddering.

A shrill scream at the gate startled both to their feet to see Odette dart down the road like a bird of flight.

"What can have happened to the girl?" exclaimed Estelle, alarmed.

"Stay here. I will go and see," said the priest, and he hurried hatless along the gravel walk to the gate and out into the road.

A strange sight met his gaze. The primitive mail coach from Red River Landing, on the Mississippi, with its leather curtains down and drawn by two lean and weary ponies, was approaching. It was surrounded by a score of men on horseback and afoot, crowding past each other and eagerly peering through the front and the sides of the ancient vehicle, all speaking at once, so that their excited voices produced an unintelligible hum. Odette, with her arms round his neck, appeared to be dragging a handsome dark man, whose arm was about her waist, toward the coach, entreating wildly:

"Make him get out! He must get out! Do not let him go by! Help him down! Lead him in! He must not go by!"

Father Grhe rushed through the group, threw aside the curtain, looked within and fell back a step, his face radiant with ecstatic astonishment. Raising his eyes heavenward and spreading his open palms, he said solemnly:

Instantly every head was bared and reverently bowed, and from Imel, the old schoolmaster, came the response:

"From the rising to the setting sun, blessed be the name of the Lord!"

Seizing the bride bits, the priest pulled the unwilling beasts to the gate, tore

off the curtain and extending his arms within, said:

In affectionate embrace he tenderly lifted from the coach a frail figure clad in faded, threadbare gray. The left arm clung to the priest for support; the right hung limp from a drooping, shrunken shoulder. The dark man stepped quickly to the maimed side and passed one arm about his body. As the emaciated face turned in mute and kindly recognition a mighty shout of joy and welcome went up from the men on horses and echoed far into the still forest. At a sign from the priest the company halted at the gate while he passed in with his tottering burden and proceeded slowly up the path. Odette ran to Estelle, who stood on the veranda bewildered, and, seizing her hand, said:

"Come, my mistress, but be calm. Come, mistress."

"What does it mean, Odette?" asked Estelle, trembling from head to foot.

"Come, mistress, but be calm. Come, come!" Odette repeated and led her down the walk.

As he drew near the man in gray raised his head and disengaging the unwounded hand held it out to her and said:

"Estelle, sweet angel, come!"

Why Should an Actress—

Write Sermons, Dress Dolls, Sell Them For Four Times Their Value, Report Murder Trials and Be Interviewed at Daybreak on Ridiculous Questions?

By MAXINE ELLIOTT

If there is one thing more than another in my profession which I have not been able to understand, it is the curiosity which the public manifests in every detail of a player's life. Our art is to forget ourselves as much as possible—to be in thought and action others—and yet we are never allowed to get beyond the prosaic realities of our personal and unimportant impressions. We are constantly being held up to view as expounders of this or that theory of dramatic art, as believing in some sort of future for the American playwright, as holding strange opinions about life and death and the hereafter. We are featured to tell over and over again that same old story of an actor's career, with emphasis on all its hardships. We are besieged to point out the pitfalls, that those who would follow in our steps may be wary, or to encourage the laggards by a word of advice or a precept from our own "wretched" example.

WE ARE ASKED TO WRITE SERMONS, TO REPORT MURDER TRIALS, TO DRESS DOLLS—EVEN TO GO ABROAD IN THE WORLD AND SELL THEM FOR FOUR TIMES THEIR VALUE. WE ARE GOT UP AT DAYBREAK TO GIVE OUR VIEWS ON RIDICULOUS QUESTIONS ABOUT WHICH WE HAVE NO MORE IDEA THAN THE MAN IN THE MOON. AND THE WORST OF IT ALL, I BELIEVE, IS THAT WE DO IT.

I have asked probably as often as others have asked me why we do it. Surely not to gratify the public's love of literature and art; hardly to perpetuate our name and fame, though it might often seem that it was for this reason, lest in the insignificance we feared we should be quite forgotten.

Anyway, we doubt it. I DO NOT KNOW THAT ANY ONE HAS TOLD US THAT THUS WE ARE ELEVATING THE STAGE, NOR DO I KNOW THAT ANY ONE DOUBTS THAT IT IS TO ADVERTISE OURSELVES, THOUGH I SHOULD QUESTION THE RIGHT OF ANY ONE TO ACCUSE US OF DOING IT FOR THAT PURPOSE.

It must be that we have not considered our art as seriously as we should. The artists of other fields, the painters, the poets, the sculptors, are not disturbed by these vagrant voices of the wind that carry a player's name broadcast. In the seclusion of his studio the painter creates his picture undisturbed and gives it to the world. People do not care what a sculptor thinks of the thousand and one worries of life, do not know even that he ever bothers himself about life at all, nor is the poet besieged to write little verses and to sell them for charity. But the player, the actress! It seems to have become a part of her life to have views and to proclaim them from the housetop. Regretfully, I am not an exception. I wish I were. I wish I could be. That is the pernicious side of it all—one cannot gracefully be an exception.

ty of champagne. In 1900 2,045 tons valued at $547,000 were exported. During the same year the imports amounted to double that quantity. The duty on champagne imported into Germany is 35 cents a bottle. This high duty has induced many French firms to establish plants of their own within the German border.

There is a large number of professional "bee hunters" in the west and southwest of Texas. Small caves and dark recesses formed by shelving rock abound along the waterways of the Texan rivers. They are the natural hives of the wild bees and take the place of the hollow tree trunks of the forest regions of the northern country. These caves are used year after year by the bees, and in many instances they have been found to be literally filled with honey.

The Australian shipping trade continues to expand. In New South Wales in 1900 it was larger than in any previous year. The total number of vessels entered and cleared was 7,082 against 6,400 in 1899. Of the former 6,308 were under the British flag and 724 under those of other countries. Notwithstanding the significance of these figures we are daily informed of the decadence of the British empire and of the enormous growth of the marine of other countries.

All Mussulmans Secure Converts.

Europeans habitually forget that every Mussulman is more or less of a missionary—that is, he intensely desires to secure converts from non-Mussulman peoples. Such converts not only increase his own chance of heaven, but they swell his own faction, his own army, his own means of conquering, governing and taxing the remainder of mankind.

All the emotions which impel a Christian to proselyte are in a Mussulman strengthened by all the motives which impel a political leader and all the motives which sway a recruiting sergeant, until proselytism has become a passion, which wherever success seems practicable, and especially success on a large scale, develops in the quietest Mussulman a fury of ardor which induces him to break down every obstacle, his own strongest prejudices included, rather than stand for an instant in a neophyte's way. He welcomes him as a son, and, whatever his own lineage and whether the convert be negro or Chinaman or Indian or even European, he will without hesitation or scruple give his own child in marriage and admit him fully, frankly and finally into the most exclusive society in the world.—Townsend's "Brown Man."

Scotch Economy.

A Scottish noble lord, famed among his friends for his saving, or, as he would have put it himself, his careful propensities, went out one day shooting in his broad moors, accompanied only by his keeper. After an afternoon's hard work he sat down to rest and, ruefully contemplating his bag, observed thoughtfully, "And to think that each brace has cost me, first and last, at least 15 shillings, Donald!"

"Eh, eh?" answered Donald consolingly. "Then it's a maircy yere lairdship missed the many ye did today, for it's a nice bit y've saved, I'm thinking."—London Sketch.

Her Age.

Judge—How old are you, madam?

We are featured to tell over and over again that same old story of an actor's career, with emphasis on all its hardships. We are besieged to point out the pitfalls, that those who would follow in our steps may be wary, or to encourage the laggards by a word of advice or a precept from our own "wretched" example.

WE ARE ASKED TO WRITE SERMONS, TO REPORT MURDER TRIALS, TO DRESS DOLLS—EVEN TO GO ABROAD IN THE WORLD AND SELL THEM FOR FOUR TIMES THEIR VALUE. WE ARE GOT UP AT DAYBREAK TO GIVE OUR VIEWS ON RIDICULOUS QUESTIONS ABOUT WHICH WE HAVE NO MORE IDEA THAN THE MAN IN THE MOON. AND THE WORST OF IT ALL, I BELIEVE, IS THAT WE DO IT.

I have asked probably as often as others have asked me why we do it. Surely not to gratify the public's love of literature and art; hardly to perpetuate our name and fame, though it might often seem that it was for this reason, lest in the insignificance we feared we should be quite forgotten.

Anyway, we doubt it. I DO NOT KNOW THAT ANY ONE HAS TOLD US THAT THUS WE ARE ELEVATING THE STAGE, NOR DO I KNOW THAT ANY ONE DOUBTS THAT IT IS TO ADVERTISE OURSELVES, THOUGH I SHOULD QUESTION THE RIGHT OF ANY ONE TO ACCUSE US OF DOING IT FOR THAT PURPOSE.

It must be that we have not considered our art as seriously as we should. The artists of other fields, the painters, the poets, the sculptors, are not disturbed by these vagrant voices of the wind that carry a player's name broadcast. In the seclusion of his studio the painter creates his picture undisturbed and gives it to the world. People do not care what a sculptor thinks of the thousand and one worries of life, do not know even that he ever bothers himself about life at all, nor is the poet besieged to write little verses and to sell them for charity. But the player, the actress! It seems to have become a part of her life to have views and to proclaim them from the housetop. Regretfully, I am not an exception. I wish I were. I wish I could be. That is the pernicious side of it all—one cannot gracefully be an exception.

The amount of execution that can be done by a wad of fat meat on top of a good charge of powder is amazing. Wherever it strikes hair and hide disappear. It seldom if ever kills, but leaves scars that time does not obliterate. The fat being salty, causes excruciating pain, which lingers long in memory, and the stricken animal does not offend again.

Two Battles.

Porfirio Diaz gained national prominence and won his spurs at the battle of Puebla, where the Liberal forces made a gallant but ineffectual stand against the French who had invaded Mexico for the purpose of erecting a throne for Maximilian. Notwithstanding the fact that the Mexican forces were defeated, their defense against superior numbers was so gallant that the anniversary of the battle of the 5th of May became a national holiday in Mexico.

A brusque American once asked the president, "Why do you Mexicans celebrate a defeat when you know that the French finally took Puebla?"

President Diaz, with a twinkle in his eye, replied, "Perhaps we have imitated the Americans even to the extent of celebrating our defeats, for I have been told that the British defeated the colonists at Bunker Hill, and yet you built a monument to commemorate the event."

"Eh, eh?" answered Donald consolingly. "Then it's a maircy yere lairdship missed the many ye did today, for it's a nice bit y've saved, I'm thinking."—London Sketch.

"And that is, monsieur?"

"That Estelle becomes my wife within a month. You now understand that Estelle, and she alone, can save you." Evariste concluded, as he had begun, speaking coldly, deliberately, precisely.

"You are a prince in generosity, my dear friend. I am overwhelmed by your munificence. You give me life, peace and health, and in return I can give you only an old man's thankfulness." Latlois in a transport of gratitude rose and started to embrace Evariste, but in sheer weakness reeled and would have fallen to the floor had not the young man caught him and returned him to his chair.

"Collect yourself, monsieur. There is no occasion for demonstration," said he dryly. "Do you promise Estelle's consent?"

"Certainly I do," he replied, half weeping, half laughing. "She, dear child, will be honored and overjoyed, and she will be as grateful as I am. To save her grandfather and become the happy wife of the noble and great hearted M. Oakfeld. Ha, ha, ha, ha! Oh, I promise, I promise her consent."

"Attend, monsieur. This is Wednesday. On Saturday next at 4 o'clock I will call on Mlle. Latlois and ask her hand in marriage. Her answer will decide the matter we have discussed today."

"Will you not come in time to dine with us?" said Latlois almost affectionately.

"No; that can wait her answer," Evariste curtly replied.

"Never fear the answer, M. Evariste. It will be as you wish. Is all this agreeable to Constant?"

"It is. He wants his money; that is all. Eh, Quillebert?"

"None!" grunted the latter, waking from the torpor into which he had suffered from the room to which he had been left out of the conversation.

"Then," said Latlois, "let us drink to amity, peace and happiness for us three."

"No," Evariste objected; "you must not drink until this matter is concluded."

"I will do the needful drinking, Leonidas," said Quillebert, refilling his glass. "You make sure of Evariste's bride."

Neither accompanied him out of the room. Dede assisted him into his Leonidas Latlois was unconscious. Evariste, gave him the reins, started the horse homeward and stood in the doorway gazing after him and wondering by what miracle it was that he left the cabaret sober.

How long the buggy and patient horse had stood in the shade of a spreading umbrella china tree beside the home gate was not known. A passer-by, receiving from the proverbially polite old man no acknowledgment of his salute, looked attentively into his face and discovered that Leonidas Latlois was unconscious, though sitting erect on the buggy seat, holding the reins loosely in his hands. The household was alarmed, and he was tenderly lifted and conveyed to his chamber. The breathing was deep and regular, the limbs were warm and mobile, but a heavy sleep seemed to have settled upon him, from which he could not be awakened. Dr. Tougarre, the family physician, after vain experiments with black coffee, limited his treatment to such medication as would sustain the patient's strength and trusted to nature and perfect rest for the restoration of the mental faculties, strictly enjoining absolute quiet. Thus for days the stricken man lay mute and almost motionless, rousing only sufficiently to receive nutriment, and no word had escaped his lips when the day and hour arrived, so fateful to him and his ward, set by Evariste for the visit of weal or woe.

CHAPTER XIX.

CASSANDRA SURVIVES TROY.

THE midday meal had been eaten, coffee had been served on the veranda to Estelle and Father Grhe, whom she had persuaded to prolong his duty call at the afflicted home. Suffering was depicted in her face, but also the meek resignation of the martyr. The priest, whose breadth of girth had grown in the pinching times of war, but whose hair had thinned and was whitening, inhaled the smoke of perique from a long pipe with evident satisfaction, though a look of protest seemed to have settled upon his benignant countenance. Odette, matured and grave, sat on a cypress block outside the gate, listlessly looking up and down the deserted road. The warm languor of spring was in the air, the bush of tropical noon was on all the scene.

"My child," said Father Grhe, "the life of a Discalced Carmelite nun is one of unutterable severity. It is but a breathing death. Her cell is, in fact, a grave, her convent a cemetery. More than figuratively she is dead to the world. She can scarce be called a shade of her former self, immured behind walls and grates, barefoot, shorn, her sight riveted to the ground, subsisting on crusts dogs would scarce eat. Were I pope the order should be abolished. Think of some other—a Sister of Charity, a Little Sister of the Poor, a Sister of the Sacred Heart. Any of these serves God by serving his children in the world he made for them."

"It is your tender heart, father, which counsels," she replied, "and it cannot fully know the needs and cravings of my spirit. To mingle with the world even on pious errands must always remind me in some degree of what I have lost, of what I have suffered. Forgiveness of wrongs, forgetfulness of sorrows, absorption in God the Consoler, will soonest come in the cell of the discalced nun. And it may be there my soul will soonest be chastened and released."

"I fear it is the latter hope which most recruits the order," sighed the priest.

"Let not the subject disturb you further for the present, father," she said. "For I will stay by my poor grandfather to the end, as I promised, and possibly then I may be able to see as you do. Will M. Quillebert, you think, be cruel enough to disturb grandpere while he is so ill?"

"Cruel enough, yes, but scarcely bold enough to risk the indignation of the people."

"And can you believe M. Evariste will fulfill his threat of coming here again and repeating his demand upon me? Can you believe he will after what I said to him, as I have told you?"

"I fear he will have the hardihood and meanness to do so. Whatever of manliness and generosity he may have had in former years seems to have been educated out of him by his tutelage to Quillebert," answered Father Grhe, with a bitterness for which he atoned that night with 30 Ave Marias and three readings of the daily office.

"Then, I pray you to stay here, father, as late as you can. I will not ask you to be present at the dread interview, but I shall have courage from knowing you are near."

"Fear not, daughter. I will remain."

"Oh, I wish it was over," she whispered, shuddering.

A shrill scream at the gate started both to their feet to see Odette dart down the road like a bird of flight.

"What can have happened to the girl?" exclaimed Estelle, alarmed.

"Stay here. I will go and see," said the priest, and he hurried hatless along the gravel walk to the gate and out into the road.

A strange sight met his gaze. The primitive mail coach from Red River Landing, on the Mississippi, with its leather curtains down and drawn by two lean and weary ponies, was approaching. It was surrounded by a score of men on horseback and afoot, crowding past each other and eagerly peering through the front and the sides of the ancient vehicle, all speaking at once, so that their excited voices produced an unintelligible hum. Odette, with her arms round his neck, appeared to be dragging a handsome dark man, whose arm was about her waist, toward the coach, entreating wildly:

"Make him get out! He must get out! Do not let him go by! Help him down! Lead him in! He must not go by!"

Father Grhe rushed through the group, threw aside the curtain, looked within and fell back a step, his face radiant with ecstatic astonishment. Raising his eyes heavenward and spreading his open palms, he said solemnly:

"Blessed be the name of the Lord now and forever!"

Instantly every head was bared and reverently bowed, and from Imel, the old schoolmaster, came the response:

"From the rising to the setting sun blessed be the name of the Lord!"

Seizing the bride bits, the priest pulled the unwilling beasts to the gate, tore

off the curtain and extending his arms within, said:

In affectionate embrace he tenderly lifted from the coach a frail figure clad in faded, threadbare gray. The left arm clung to the priest for support; the right hung limp from a drooping, shrunken shoulder. The dark man stepped quickly to the maimed side and passed one arm about his body. As the emaciated face turned in mute and kindly recognition a mighty shout of joy and welcome went up from the men on horses and echoed far into the still forest. At a sign from the priest the company halted at the gate while he passed in with his tottering burden and proceeded slowly up the path. Odette ran to Estelle, who stood on the veranda bewildered, and, seizing her hand, said:

"Come, my mistress, but be calm. Come, mistress."

"What does it mean, Odette?" asked Estelle, trembling from head to foot.

"Come, mistress, but be calm. Come, come!" Odette repeated and led her down the walk.

As he drew near the man in gray raised his head and disengaging the unwounded hand held it out to her and said:

"Estelle, sweet angel, come!"

By MAXINE ELLIOTT

There is one thing more than another in my profession which I have not been able to understand, it is the curiosity which the public manifests in every detail of a player's life. Our art is to forget ourselves as much as possible—to be in thought and action others—and yet we are never allowed to get beyond the prosaic realities of our personal and unimportant impressions. We are constantly being held up to view as expounders of this or that theory of dramatic art, as holding strange opinions about life and death and the hereafter. We are featured to tell over and over again that same old story of an actor's career, with emphasis on all its hardships. FUSION IS DEFEATED.

Regular Republicans, Harris and Potter, Elected In Pennsylvania.

ROTHERMEL WAS KNOCKED OUT.

In Philadelphia, Where He Was the Fusion Candidate For District Attorney—Allegheny County Went Republican by About 25,000.

Philadelphia, Nov. 6.—Returns up to 2 p. m. indicate the election of the Republican state ticket, Frank G. Harris for state treasurer and William B. Potter for supreme court judge by from 60,000 to 70,000 plurality. The vote in favor of the proposed constitutional amendments in the interest of ballot reform is overwhelming.

Frank G. Harris.

Pennsylvania voted on three proposed amendments to the constitution, which provide for personal registration and voting machines. While returns on this portion of the ballot are meagre there is little doubt that the amendments carried. The propositions must, however, be acted upon by the legislature which meets in 1903 before they can be embodied in the constitution.

John Weaver (Rep.) is probably elected district attorney in Philadelphia over Rothermel (Fusion), but at midnight returns are in from only six of the 41 wards, and an estimate of the Republican plurality is therefore not possible.

At midnight Secretary Clemens, of the Union party, conceded the defeat of the state and county ticket of the Union party in Philadelphia. He declines to give figures on the ground that the returns so far received are not sufficient for basing an estimate.

Pittsburg, Nov. 6.—Senator Flinn estimated, last night, that Allegheny county had gone Republican by about 25,000.

At midnight Colonel J. M. Guffey, made the following brief statement: "The outcome at this hour is not very encouraging either at home or over the state. The people seem to

C. Harry Davis (Fusion) is probably elected common pleas judge in Philadelphia, defeating Maxwell Stevenson (Dem.). Stevenson was also on the Public Opinion party ticket and received Republican support, but not enough to elect him. The Republicans elected the other two judges, Robert Ralston and J. Willis Martin.

Accusations of Illegal Voting.

Notwithstanding the intense interest, the elections throughout the city was conducted generally in an orderly manner. There were, however, numerous disputes at polling places and in a number of instances the disputants came away with broken heads, but no very serious rows occurred anywhere. Both the regular Republicans and the fusionists charge each other with wholesale fraud and promise to make numerous arrests. There were numerous arrests for violations of the election laws, but in nearly every case the offender was promptly bailed out by political friends. The polls did not close until 7 o'clock and the returns came in to various political figures. In the absence of sufficient figures the city chairmen of the various political parties continued to claim that their candidates would carry the city.

There was comparatively little cutting of Potter in this city. An exam-

THE AMERICAN WOMAN

AMERICAN women are perfectly charming. They are bright, clever, smart and cheery. We see the best and the worst of them in England. The best are those who come with good introductions and are immediately received into London society; the worst are those whose "poppas" have made a pile within a few years and, being practically uneducated themselves and wishing their wives and daughters to be quite up to date, pack them off to "Eu-rope" with some thousands of dollars in their pockets to improve their manners and their minds.

The American woman one meets in the United States is a very different person. Generally tall and well built, she dresses to perfection and usually suitably. Her best gowns come from Paris, and her tailor made ones are built on her side of the herring pond. There are no better tailors anywhere than can be found in the States.

She is an extravagant person, this American woman, for she spends twice, if not three times, as much on her dress as her English sister, and SHE CERTAINLY KNOWS HOW TO MAKE MONEY FLY IN EVERY DIRECTION. Is this not a little hard on the poor husbands? They have developed into mere money making machines, and yet it is their own fault; they are utterly unselfish as far as their women folk are concerned. They want their wives to be smarter than any one else, their houses to be in the most fashionable quarter and, above all, their dinners to be described in the papers! For this they are willing to pay.

American women live their lives apart from their men folk. They invent pretty little dishes for luncheon parties, invite their friends to come and test them as epicures or dine together at restaurants. Their lives are as full of diversified interests as their husbands' are centered into one groove.

After many happy weeks spent in the States I am not in the least surprised that Englishmen should marry American women. They show their good taste. I SHOULD DO THE SAME WERE I A MAN! Nor am I surprised that American women should prefer Englishmen, for the same remark applies. There are a delightful freedom, an air of comradeship coupled with pleasant manners and pretty looks in the American woman which are most attractive. Her hospitality is unbounded, her generosity thoughtful, and she is in every way an all round good sort.

The American woman is an excellent speaker. It is surprising to hear her oratory at one of her large club luncheons, such as the Sorosis, in New York. She stands up and addresses a couple of hundred women just as easily as she would begin a tete-a-tete across a luncheon table.

Ination of the returns from 20 wards showed that he did not run 100 votes behind Harris in any one ward, and in several his vote exceeded that of his colleague on the ticket.

The amendments have undoubtedly been carried. At midnight the Union party managers at state headquarters conceded the defeat of the Union party's state ticket and also the defeat of the county ticket, with the exception of the candidate for common pleas court No. 5, one of whom, G. Harry Davis, is probably elected.

Secretary Mapes, of the state committee, said that the fusion candidates made large gains throughout the state, but that the majorities in both Philadelphia and Allegheny (which takes in Pittsburg) have wiped out the gains made in the interior.

Allegheny County by 25,000.

Pittsburg, Nov. 6.—Returns received up to an early hour this morning indicate that the Republican state and county ticket had carried Allegheny county by 25,000 majority. The city alone is claimed to be Republican by a majority of probably 18,000 on a light vote.

The candidates who won in this county were for state officers: William P. Potter for Harman D. Yerkes for supreme court judge; Frank G. Harris over E. A. Coray for state treasurer; for county officers, Jesse M. McGeary over William M. Beach for coroner; Henry W. Ochse over Adam Norris for director of the poor.

BOSS CROKER HAS RETIRED

Asserted, on Good Authority, That Carroll, Is to Be Chief of Tammany.

New York, Nov. 6.—Mr. Croker, Maurice Undermeyer and Senator T. D. Sullivan were together at dinner last night and it is said on good authority that a little later Mr. Croker said this was his last political fight. Mr. Croker asked Senator Sullivan whom he desired as leader. Sullivan answered that John F. Carroll would be pleasing to him. Then and there, it is stated, Richard Croker abdicated his leadership of Tammany Hall and turned it over to John F. Carroll.

There was some discussion as to the plans of a reorganization of Tammany, in which Mr. Croker took no part except to suggest that younger blood be admitted to the inner council of the wigwam.

The party proceeded to Tammany hall, where John F. Carroll was awaiting them. He was apprised of the purpose of Mr. Croker, but said nothing. He accompanied Mr. Croker to the Democratic club in a cab, and, going upstairs, remained closeted with him for nearly an hour. It was after this conference that Mr. Croker announced "this is my last campaign."

It is now said that Daniel F. McMahon will call a meeting of the executive committee within a week or so and Mr. Croker will then tender his resignation, and on motion of Senator Timothy D. Sullivan, John F.

Lunch Prices and Dinner Prices. Any one who will take the trouble to compare the lunch and dinner menus of some of the leading restaurants of New York will make a rather surprising discovery. He will ascertain that the prices on many dishes are cut on the dinner card from 10 cents to 20 cents.

A gentleman whose curiosity was aroused by this singular practice to the extent that he went to the head waiter for a more satisfactory reason than the table waiter could advance was given this explanation:

"You see," said the waiter, "the general of men don't care for a heavy lunch. One dish and a glass of milk or a cup of coffee, with bread and butter, are sufficient for them; consequently to prevent them from getting off too cheap we have to put up the price of single dishes. At dinner time it is different. A man wants a number of dishes for dinner, and so we can afford to make our meats and fish cheaper."

"But do you think that is exactly?" "Honest? Why not? It is always honest to take what people are willing to pay for what you have to sell, is it not?"—New York Times.

Why Hindoos Don't Go Mad.

Why are there so few lunatic asylums and so small a proportion of insane persons in India? That is a question which many a traveler has wonderingly asked.

The Hindoos regulate their lives entirely in accordance with their religion—that is, their working, eating, sleeping, as well as what we usually regard as our "life" in the religious sense of the word. Everything is arranged for them, and they follow the rules now just as they did 2,000 years ago. This constant observance of the same rules for twenty centuries has molded the brains of the race into one shape, as it were, and although their rites are queer enough, yet there is but an occasional example of that striking deviation from the common which is called insanity in countries inhabited by the white race.

They are fatalists too. With them it is a case of "what is to be will be" carried to the extreme. This has in time given them the power to take all things calmly and so freed them from the anxiety that drives so many white men into the lunatic asylums.

Met His Match.

That well known historical personage, Augustus the Strong, elector of Saxony, has furnished the subject for many a tale of his wonderful muscular power. We need refer only to one characteristic story in which, however, he met his match. On the occasion in question he entered a blacksmith's shop. To show his suit how strong he was, picking up several horseshoes, he broke one after the other, asking the blacksmith whether he had no better.

When it came to paying the bill, the Elector Augustus threw a six dollar piece on the anvil. It was a very thick coin. The blacksmith took it up, broke it in half, saying, "Pardon me, but I have given you a good horseshoe, and I expect a good coin in return."

Another six dollar piece was given him, but he broke that and five or six others, when the humiliated elector put an end to the performance by handing the blacksmith a louisdor, pacifying him by saying, "The dollars were probably made of bad metal, but this gold-piece, I hope, is good."

Sedan Chairs in France.

The sedan chair still exists in Orleans, a bustling town not far from Paris. In this pretty city, says a Paris newspaper, especially on Sundays at the hour of mass, the classic sedan chair, as it was known to the gallants of the eighteenth century, is borne through the streets by robust carriers, its occupants being aged people and invalids, to whom the jolting of a carriage is intensely disagreeable.

Eating a Pineapple.

A Florida fruit grower states that the natives of the pineapple district never think of cutting a pineapple across. They pare it, cut it lengthwise, slice it or not, and with the trimmed crown as a handle, eat it much as a New Englander does his green corn, rejecting the core. This, the writer states, not only improves the flavor, but lessens the strings of fiber that get in the teeth.

FUSION IS DEFEATED.

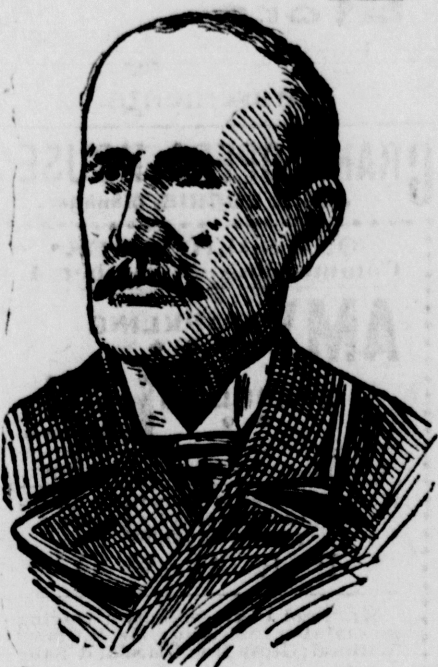

Regular Republicans, Harris and Potter, Elected In Pennsylvania.

ROTHERMEL WAS KNOCKED OUT.

In Philadelphia, Where He Was the Fusion Candidate For District Attorney—Allegheny County Went Republican by About 25,000.

Philadelphia, Nov. 6.—Returns up to 2 p. m. indicate the election of the Republican state ticket, Frank G. Harris for state treasurer and William B. Potter for supreme court judge by from 60,000 to 70,000 plurality. The vote in favor of the proposed constitutional amendments in the interest of ballot reform is overwhelming.

Philadelphia, Nov. 6.—Returns from the state indicated the election of Frank G. Harris (Rep.) for state treasurer and William Potter (Rep.) for supreme court justice by pluralities considerably below those of 1893.

Frank G. Harris.

when Barnett (Rep.) had 110,588 plurality. The reduction of the Republican plurality is due in part to the light vote cast.

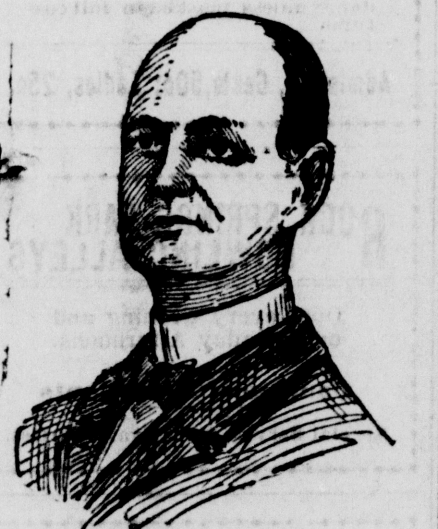

Pennsylvania voted on three proposed amendments to the constitution, which provide for personal registration and voting machines. While returns on this portion of the ballot are meagre there is little doubt that the amendments carried. The propositions must, however, be acted upon by the legislature which meets in 1903 before they can be embodied in the constitution.

John Weaver (Rep.) is probably elected district attorney in Philadelphia over Rothermel (Fusion), but at midnight returns are in from only six of the 41 wards, and an estimate of the Republican plurality is therefore not possible.

At midnight Secretary Clemens, of the Union party, conceded the defeat of the state and county ticket of the Union party in Philadelphia. He declines to give figures on the ground that the returns so far received are not sufficient for basing an estimate.

Pittsburg, Nov. 6.—Senator Flinn estimated, last night, that Allegheny county had gone Republican by about 25,000.

At midnight Colonel J. M. Guffey, made the following brief statement: "The outcome at this hour is not very encouraging either at home or over the state. The people seem to be satisfied with present conditions, and if they are I certainly need not complain."

C. Harry Davis (Fusion) is probably elected common pleas judge in Philadelphia, defeating Maxwell Stevenson (Dem.). Stevenson was also on the Public Opinion party ticket and received Republican support, but not enough to elect him. The Republicans elected the other two judges, Robert Ralston and J. Willis Martin.

Accusations of Illegal Voting.

Notwithstanding the intense interest, the elections throughout the city was conducted generally in an orderly manner. There were, however, numerous disputes at polling places and in a number of instances the disputants came away with "broken heads," but no very serious rows occurred anywhere. Both the regular Republicans and the fusionists charge each other with wholesale fraud and promise to make numerous arrests. There were numerous arrests for violations of the election laws, but in nearly every case the offender was promptly bailed out by political friends. The polls did not close until 7 o'clock and the returns came in to various political places late. In the absence of sufficient figures the city chairmen of the various political parties continued to claim that their candidates would carry the city.

There was comparatively little cutting of Potter in this city. An exam-

Brief Notes of a Personal Nature And of Matters About Town.

Has Sold Out—Richard Simms has disposed of his grocery store on West Market street and will travel for a Pittsburg house.

Weekly Socials—The Ladies' auxiliary met last night and voted to hold weekly socials in the hall. They also voted to furnish a reading room with new table and magazine binders.

The Movers—The household goods of Wm. H. Baker were yesterday shipped to Trenton, N. J. Those of W. Elenbach were received from Salineville and those of James T. Murray were received from Cincinnati.

His Father Dead—F. M. Beers, a life insurance agent, yesterday received a telegram which announced the death of his father at his home at New York city. He left on the afternoon train to attend the funeral, arrangements for which had not yet been completed.

Epworth League Social—A business meeting and social of the Epworth league of the Erie street M. E. church was held last evening at the parsonage. Rev. George W. Orcutt's home on Boyce avenue. The entertainment was replete with music and literary selections, all of the young people having a nice time.

Constable Becomes Detective—Constable James Miller has been busy the past few days gathering evidence against several alleged offenders, all of whom he proposes to bring to justice. "Uncle Jim" is quite clever as a detective and though he refuses to make known the nature of the cases he is working up, he promises they will be warm ones.

A PIONEER MINISTER

Rev. George Voglesong, Recently Deceased, Was an Old Resident of This County.

Rev. George Voglesong, of Elyria, who died at his home at Elyria recently, was a well known character in Salem many years ago. For many years he was mail carrier between Hanoverton and this city. He was a very religious man and was licensed as a preacher in the M. E. church at Monroeville, O., in 1841. At Salem he was ordained an elder by Bishop J. R. Ames in 1856. He was a very useful man in the church, and was much in demand at weddings and funerals.

For nearly 50 years he and his wife lived at Hanoverton, removing from there to Elyria in 1889, where they celebrated their golden wedding in 1890. On this occasion their seven children were all present.

BULGER'S PHARMACY

UNUSUALLY TAME

Police Business Not Enlivened By the Election—Only One Plain Drunk.

One lone drunk was the sum total of election day police business. Thomas Murphy, who claims Syracuse, N. Y., as his home, was found last night in a helpless state of intoxication by Officer Morris.

Murphy was unable to navigate, and as the patrol wagon was out of repair, the policeman was in a quandary for a time as to how to transport his charge. Just as he was about to start in search of a wheelbarrow a dirt wagon hove in sight. The driver was hailed and Murphy soon rolled in over the end gate. The journey to the bastille was then begun and a few minutes later the cargo was rolled into the city hall storage house.

An investigation of the culprit's pockets revealed two pennies, which he probably had overlooked, as he gasped in horror when he saw the wealth pass away from him.

Mayor Davidson, after hearing Murphy's story this morning, instructed the lusher to take an immediate sneak from the building. Murphy did so without hesitancy.

FRAUD IS CHARGED

Partners in the Keystone Lumber Company Are Confronted With Grave Accusations.

New Castle, Pa., November 6.—Sensational action was taken in court here when Attorney Frank A. Hoyer asked that a rule be granted on the defunct Keystone Lumber company, to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed. The partners are William R. Rodenbaugh, of this city, and Frank Nicholson, of Steubenville, O.

The action was taken for R. H. Allen & Sons, contractors, who allege that the partners of the Keystone Lumber company fraudulently transferred to Mrs. Rodenbaugh large sums of money with the express purpose of defrauding their creditors. It is also alleged that Samuel Huey, one of the creditors, was preferred over the others, in a way to defraud other creditors.

Nicholson has not been seen here for some time and his creditors have been unable to find any trace of him. Rodenbaugh is here and contends that Nicholson will soon be back. The Keystone Lumber company has failed for a large amount, badly crippling several smaller concerns. This failure and its results will probably end in the doing away with the "no lien" form of contract in this state, as all mechanics are pledging themselves to fight for its abolishment by the state legislature.

FAMOUS OLD BRIDGE

Over the Ohio Now Giving Way to the March of Improvement.

Work of remodeling the B. & O. bridge at Benwood suggests the fact that the stone viaduct there was at one time considered one of the greatest in the world. The masonry is still solid, but the old iron bridge is in bad condition and will have to be rebuilt to carry the heavier trains that are being hauled these days.

The great locomotives and big cars that have been introduced in recent years have made it unsafe. An unusual feature of this bridge is that the stone work runs through the town.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES

Two Homes Quarantined Because of Diphtheria And Scarlet Fever.

Sanitary Officer Burgess quarantined the home of Alvin H. Bulger, on Sixth street, this morning. A small child of Mr. Bulger is afflicted with diphtheria.

The home of Eben Green, on Third street, was also quarantined this morning, where a case of scarlet fever has developed. The patient, a small child, is not seriously ill.

APPEALS HIS CASE

B. P. Fink Claims His Firm Owes Epstein, of Baltimore, Nothing.

B. P. Fink has appealed from Justice Rose's court the case brought against his firm by Jacob Epstein, of Baltimore, in which judgment was given against B. P. Fink & Co. Mr. Fink states that it was plain that B. P. Fink & Co. never purchased goods from the Baltimore house. He says he appeals because his evidence will plainly show that his firm does not owe Epstein one dollar.

Two Circus Feats.

"A great deal of unnecessary sympathy is wasted upon the circus man who stands up proudly in spangled tights and lets another circus man bring down a sledge hammer upon a rock placed upon his head with force enough to break it," says an old circus man. "This is spectacular, but is entirely painless and calls for no great strength or endurance. Upon the cranium of the strong man is put an iron contrivance weighing about 150 pounds and provided with cushions both above and where it rests upon the head. A pretty good sized rock is used, and the hammer is a heavy one, so you can see that the blow that cracks the rock is really a serious one. But most of the force is taken up by the rock and the rest by the iron and cushions, while the only sensation felt by the subject is a gentle tap."

"No more difficult than this is the act whereby the hero of the canvas tent permits a rock to be broken upon his chest with a blow from a sledge hammer. So long as the subject's back is free and does not rest against any solid object the trick is perfectly simple. A little illustration: Take a board up and let it lie freely in your hand and hit it smartly with a hammer. It is difficult to hurt your hand, and the thicker the board the less the sensation. But now put your hand on the table and hit the board. Hurts, doesn't it? Well, it's the same with the rock on the chest."

The Improved Empire Fashion.

Probably the fancy for the empire frock, both for brides and bridesmaids, will be more or less in evidence throughout the coming season, for nowadays we have brought the cut of the empire to the highest perfection, and instead of hiding the figure it discloses its best lines and is eminently becoming to the tall, slight woman and typical of the best fashions of today.

Rubber Plants.

Many plant growers become annoyed because the older leaves at the base of their rubber plants turn yellow and fall off. This is a natural process. It does not indicate any defect in the plant. It is simply the ripening of the old foliage, which cannot be retained indefinitely. Sometimes, however, the loss of foliage results from the want of root room, but in such cases the plants refuse to grow.

Hassey's Bakery now open; all goods at regular prices. Perishable goods, two days old, half price. 121-h Queer Creatures.

There are microscopic creatures which live in roof gutters and on the bark of trees and are known as water bears and wheel animalcules. If allowed to dry up under the microscope, they can be seen to shrivel into shapeless masses, which may be kept for years uninjured in the dried state.

On being placed after this long interval in water they gradually plump up, resume their proper shape and move about in search of food just as if nothing had happened. Much the same is true for the minute worms which from the substances in which they live are known as paste and vinegar eels. Well known is the famous case of the desert snail, which, retracted into its shell, was fastened to a tablet in the British museum and showed no sign of life for seven years, when one morning it was found crawling hungrily about the glass case that formed its prison.

Up His Sleeve.

At the battle of Omdurman a soldier belonging to a Scotch regiment was nearly killed by a bullet which struck the ground just in front of him while he was firing in a reclining position. On rising to move a few feet forward, something came down his sleeve. It was the bullet. How it got up his sleeve without inflicting damage can only be accounted for by the fact that it must have been spent by the time it struck the ground in front of him and the course of its flight up his sleeve was its last billet.

He Was Too Slow.

Magistrate—Your husband charges you with assault.

Madam—Yes, your honor. I asked him if he would always love me, and he was so slow in answering that I hit him with a mop. I'm only a woman, judge, and a woman's life without love is a mere blight.—Illustrated Bits.

Quite Realistic.
